VOLUME SIX

NEWHALL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1924

NUMBER 40

"For Each Other—Not Against Each Other."

Presbyterian Church Notes

The pastor's subject Sunday morning is "The Feast on the Mountain." Communion service will be held, and new members received into church fellowship.

The subject of the Sunday school lesson is "The Choice of the Twelve." The golden text is "Freely ye have received, freely give."

The evening service will open at 7:15 with a bright song service. The leader is Mrs. C. W. Lewis. After the lesson Brother Evans will give the first of his short talks on "The Great Characters of The Bible." The character will be, "Abraham, the Father of the Faithful." Read up on the subject and come prepared to contribute something on this great life.

Civil Service Examinations

By request of the County Civil Service Commission the Signal announces that the commission wishes to secure a list of persons eligible for appointment as constable and deputy constable in various townships of the county. The vacancy caused by the death of Ed Brown is among those to be filled. An examination will be held at Newhall to fill this vacancy, the date to be announced later by the commission.

There will likely be several applicants for the position. Those desiring to take the examination should send their application to the commission at once.

Don't Put It In The Paper

Wonder how many people of Newhall realize what they are saying when they say to an editor, "Don't put that in the paper." A story that people are talking about is something that the editor merely from courtesy, not because he has to do it, generally verifies by asking the parties concerned for their statement. And far too often the only answer is, "Oh, don't put it in the paper." The editor may heed the request, and much too often does—to be told that "there's never any news in the paper." It would be far more pleasant and business like when asked for your version of a story to give your statement, and let the editor use a little of the sense and discretion he is supposed to have, and which is his first qualification for the job. Try this plan for awhile, and add to it the habit of keeping items in mind for the news hunter, when you are asked.

*Let nothing disturb thee,
Nothing affright thee;
All things are passing;
God never changeth;
Patient endurance
Attaineth to all things;
Who God possesseth
In nothing is wanting;
Alone God sufficeth.*

Saint Theresa.

Woman's Club Meeting

The next meeting of the Newhall Woman's Club will be held October 8th. Dr. Linna Phelps, District Chairman of Child Welfare and Public Health, will be the speaker. She will be assisted by Edith Burch, of the Child's Guiding Clinic. The program apparently will be very interesting.

Supper and Dance

The Catholic ladies are anticipating a good patronage at their supper and dance to be given Saturday night October 11, at Hap-a-lan Hall. The chicken supper will begin at 5:30, and well we know what good cooks the Catholic ladies are. Music for the dance will be furnished by Ostrup's orchestra.

Fire Quickly Stopped

"Thursday a carelessly thrown cigarette or cigar started a blaze on the west side of the highway between Saugus and Newhall. It was promptly reported to the officials who were soon on the spot and extinguished the flames before any damage.

People object to smoking regulations, and yet persist in such criminal carelessness. That the fire did not spread and do immense damage was fortunate, but the careless one is none the less guilty. If newer and more severe regulations as to smoking are adopted, in the effort to lessen the fire hazard, people can only blame themselves for the strict rules. It is up to the smokers. If they won't co-operate voluntarily in fire protection, they cannot complain at the result.

Russells Again In Charge

After having a pleasant vacation which has been spent fixing up their residence and "listening in" over the radio, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Russell have again become active in our business affairs by purchasing the "Pleasant" Cafe from McPeck & Anderson. This place has at different times during the past years been owned by the Russells, and under their management has always been known as "Russell's" which they made synonymous with high quality, and in the years they conducted it never had a dissatisfied patron.

The restaurant will be conducted by Mrs. Russell and Mr. Russell's sister, Mrs. Proctor of Los Angeles. H. W. himself is just going to be a sort of handy man around the place to do the bidding of the ladies who are the real ones in charge.

The Russells are thoro restaurant people, and the excellence of their meals, combined with the best of service has given them a reputation that assures success and the saying, "We eat at Russell's" tells its own story as to what discriminating diners think.

Woman's Club Dance

The Newhall Woman's Club will give a Hallowe'en dance at Hap-a-lan Hall October 25. Every one is invited. Ostrup's orchestra will furnish the music. Refreshments on sale.

You know the ladies have had a dream of a nice new club house, some time in the future, and the proceeds of their entertainments are what they depend on to make that dream come true.

Newlyweds Abducted

Wilson M Mullen (nee Pat) and his charming bride were the victims of a wilful abduction last Saturday nite. The names of the conspirators are in the hands of the authorities but there will be no prosecutions.

Under cover of darkness some twelve or so cars loaded with unmasked citizens of Newhall and vicinity surrounded the Wm Kennedy residence, where Mr Mullen and his bride were being entertained and following the impromptu concert customary to such occasions, forcibly and separately removed the couple to a dance hall in Wildwood Canyon loaned for the occasion by Mr and Mrs Perkins.

There the conspirators organized a triumphal dance before the terrified eyes of their helpless victims. At the height of festivities the couple was presented with some handsome gifts. After a graceful acceptance speech by Mr Mullen, dancing was resumed until refreshments were served.

A feature of the evening was an exhibition dance by Messrs Perkins and Mullen. More dancing and considerable fun at the expense of the good-natured groom continued until 12:30 when the conspirators released their victims and went home with the pious self-assurance of a pleasant duty well done.

S. S. R. Stewart of Los Angeles was engaged to furnish dance music, and well he did it.

New Beauty Parlor

Newhall ladies will be glad to know that they will now be able to have their hair bobbed, marcelled, or done in any desired manner right here at home, for Mrs Densmore has leased the building formerly occupied by the library and will open an up-to-date beauty parlor very shortly.

Mrs Densmore has already ordered her necessary equipment and fixtures which will be the last word in beauty parlor appliances.

In connection with the beauty parlor there will be a gift shop where those who have spare time for making articles suitable for gifts, can put them on sale.

Announcements will be sent out giving date of opening.

Entered as second-class matter, February 21, 1919, at the postoffice at Newhall, California, under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Less than five weeks of the campaign remain, and this Friday night is the close of the registration. Read this and register, if you still have time, and are not already registered.

The supreme court of California by a four to three vote has decided that the LaFollette electors' names cannot go on the ballot for the November election. The decision is probably strict law, but the courts generally have given very liberal construction to all laws regarding the placing of the names on the ballot, their chief concern being the prevention of fraud in the election, rather than to secure the advantage of some candidate in the primary. The decision at best, being a divided one, is of doubtful value, from any point of view.

There is little need or use to try to recover any of the vast sum squandered and stolen during the great war on the pretense of building American airplanes. But it is very necessary that a big fleet of planes be built now, and there is need to see that the thieves be made to keep hands off; for the records show that the grafters not only charged and collected for machines of the very highest quality, but manufactured and delivered machines so flimsy and cheap that they were nearly useless for war or peace. There can be no excuse for a repetition of these things and the bars should be up before the work is begun. And other bars more sinister should from now on be the portion of the man who attempts the first crooked deal.

Supporters of the League of Nations in the United States can find some good material for reflection in the fact that Asiatic members are demanding that questions of immigration come under the jurisdiction of the league. The net result of this action, were the United States a member, would undoubtedly be the abrogation of all our immigration laws as to quantity or nationality. Restrictions as to character and fitness might be left to us, but naturally disputes on these points would finally go to the league for settlement. Do real Americans, native or adopted, want their country placed in such a position?

The proposals for an examination of applicants for motor license have had no reference to one very important point, and that is what, for lack of a better name, we will call road character. There is little doubt but that every reckless, dangerous driver in the country would pass a first-class examination as to ability. There would, of course, have to be provision made under which beginners could learn to drive. But with the reckless ones uncurbed, nothing would be gained. We suggest one possible solution; that drivers in accidents be required to furnish a bond before being permitted to drive, after an accident, and be compelled to carry as part of the license plate the words "bonded car and driver." It would be possible by increasing penalties for repeated accidents to gradually eliminate the reckless ones who are the real menace of the road.

Speed Laws

With auto race drivers and globe-circling aircraft continually hanging new speed records, it is interesting to note that the battle against high speed on the highways started in the United States nearly 200 years ago.

With the advent of steamboats, steam railways, motor cars, airships and other mechanically driven conveyances, there has been a steady increase in maximum speed attained. A glance backward, says the Automobile Club of Southern California, indicates that our sturdy forefathers objected to dodging vehicles way back in 1757, when the city fathers of Boston passed the first speed law.

The board of selectmen of the capital of Massachusetts had narrow streets to contend with in addition to citizens inclined to drive their horses at unseemly gaits. To stop all this mischief and to penalize the speeders, the city authorities in 1757 passed the following ordinance:

"Owing to great danger arising oftentimes from coaches, slays, chairs and other carriages, on the Lord's Days, as people are going to or coming from the several churches in this town, being driven with great rapidity, and the public worship being oftentimes much disturbed by such carriages, it is therefore voted and ordered that no coach, slay, chaise chair or other carriage shall at such times be driven at a greater rate than a foot pace, on penalty to the master of the slave or servant so driving of the sum of ten schillings."

Yerba mate is a plant from which a beverage is brewed much like tea and yet quite different in many particulars. It is consumed largely in South America, where it is grown and shipped to all parts of the world. It may be drunk by persons who cannot drink tea, and yet it has some of the stimulating qualities of tea. Feuds and even international wars have been waged on account of this plant, the warriors' efforts being in the direction of securing certain secrets regarding its cultivation and preparation which have been held sacred by those who have them.

A Compliment to All Men

"The love of a good woman for a man is a compliment to all men." "Women are always ranking them selves miserable about what they don't see in a man, as though what they did see wasn't quite enough." ## MY HEART'S DESIRE

By HENRY HERBERT KNIBBS

My heart's desire is nothing great:
Say just a little eight-by-eight
Log cabin in the piney woods,
Where I may wallow in my moods
And wade around in solitudes
And rubber boots,
Free from excitement, noise and dudes;
Yes, that just suits!

My heart's desire is nothing much:
A little venison and such
Sweet trout as cities ne'er afford,
A little time to praise the Lord,
My own peculiar way, for these
Simplifications that ever please
And never pall
The heart, as in the birchen trees
The thrushes call.

My heart's desire is nothing large:
The open sky, the river marge,
The soundless woods, the empty shore
Pine needles on the parlor floor,
And hazy, lazy hours of life
Just breathing air!
(My word! What man asks less?) No strife,
Peace everywhere.

My heart's desire? The waterfalls,
The rushes where the grackle calls,
The joy of negative delights,
The melody of summer nights
And Gretchen's word
Of practical suggestion, say,
"You haven't washed your face today!"
But faintly heard.

My heart's desire? Well, come to think,
It's far too near Elysium's brink
For humankind.
One's heart, you know, is apt to change;
Most anywhere, one can arrange
His peace of mind.

The Shell Oil Company of California, has been one of the most helpful and consistent co-operators that the Forest Service has had in the state this season. Through the medium of appropriate windshield stickers and large road signs bearing the inscription "Help Prevent Fires," the Shell company has spread the gospel of fire prevention along every highway in the West. Such co-operative spirit as shown by Shell is always appreciated by the service and especially when, as in this case, the co-operation is exerted voluntarily.

The editor of "Needles" spent a very delightful evening, Thursday, September 25, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wright and the erstwhile home of Miss Lucy Meissner, in Mint Canyon. That chicken supper was sure a wonderful birthday present to T. "Bob" D., who was 35 years young on the 28th and doesn't care who knows it. Don't see how in the world Glen is ever going to lose any weight, with two real culinary experts in his home. When it comes to making cake, Lucy is sure there a million. You bet—and I don't mean "maybe!"

At the present time the common people of these United States are cursed with a double standard of law—one law for the poor and another law for the rich. This sort of injustice has been going on for years in this country in defiance of our Constitution and some day it will have to end. There will come a day when the "doll" will not be our God and our dictator. There will come a day when 50 cents will be given just as much consideration as $50,000, by the hand of justice. Fat lawyers will pass out of existence and be no more. The poor man's pleas for justice will some day be heard as readily as the rich man's. Some day it MUST be this way if the world is to endure.

For over a month, firefighters and forest officers in the Angeles Forest, have been waging a dogged battle against one of the worst fires in the history of Southern California. Every "trick of the trade" has been tried to halt the flames without avail. What that courageous army of firefighters has gone through, day after day and night after night during the past 35 days, only the boys themselves know.

And the end is not yet. Where the fire will eventually be stopped is hard to say.

Thousands upon thousands of acres of timber and brush land—priceless watershed—have been devoured by "fire wolf"—California's most ruthless enemy of destruction. And all the result of carelessness. Yet there are many people—we come in contact with them daily—who just can't understand why the Government should be so "darn strict" as to close WHA1 STILL REMAINS of extremely hazardous fire area.

The San Gabriel blaze is just one of the glowing reasons WHY. There have been over 1200 similar reasons since January 1, 1924.

A mountain fire broke out in the vicinity of Mulholland Drive, Sunday, and threatened a number of valuable residences. It took several days to get the flames under control.

A mountain fire started in Sand Canyon, Soledad division, Sunday morning. It was quickly brought under control, but nevertheless managed to destroy several shacks.

No machines have gone over the bank, on the Ridge, for over a week. Motor cops must be slowing the "wild ones" up a bit.

Fire at Live Oak Springs

Thru the explosion of a kerosene cook stove at Live Oak Springs last Saturday, the pavilion with its contents, including a piano, was entirely destroyed by fire. The flames burned over about an acre of ground before they were extinguished. It is understood that everything is covered by insurance. This beautiful spot located in sand canyon, is being subdivided, making fine cabin sites, as it has innumerable live oak trees, from which it takes its name.

A concrete flag standard has been set on the ground in front of the Mint Canyon school house; also gravel walks have been laid for the comfort of the kiddies. More improvements are to follow.

Mrs Aldrich, of Pasadena, is spending some time at the Heim home.

A new garage with concrete floor, and concrete walls to the height of four feet, graces the home of the G-S ranch, where it will accommodate two cars. Earl Schmidt is bossing the job.

Mr and Mrs C. A. Waldien and two little daughters of Los Angeles were visiting relatives and friends in Sierra Pelona Valley and Mint, the latter part of the week.

Mrs John Meissner and son Alfred, of Pasadena were guests at the Prickett home in Sterling over Saturday and Sunday.

Melvin Neal, district supervisor of schools, was a caller at Mint Canyon school last Friday.

Valmir Schmidt, after spending ten days on his mining property at Ransburg, stopped for a short time with relatives in Soledad last Saturday, while enroute to his home in Pasadena.

Little Ory Ory Brown is out of school for several days with an attack of tonsilitis.

Mr and Mrs C. A. Tegler and daughter Maxine of San Pedro, were guests of Mrs Tegler's parents, the Browns last Sunday.

It is high time to call a halt on autoists who use the boulevards and make life miserable for every dumb animal that happens to be within gunshot, by taking a "whang at it" "just for fun." These heartless wretches little know the suffering and pain they cause to the animals, and besides they are always pets and belong to some one. The mail boxes also make a target for these upstarts and smarties, especially after night, who seem to think the ruralites have no rights whatsoever. Shooting from the public highway is strictly forbidden by law, and when it comes to shooting dogs that have a home, the cowards should be summarily dealt with, giving them a dose of their own medicine. People are becoming tired of such lawlessness.

The cooked food sale held at Penhorwood's confectionery store, Saugus, last Saturday by the Saugus Community Club was well patronized and netted the club more than had been anticipated, for which the club extends its thanks and appreciation. By progressive auction the cake baked and donated by Walter Neal was sold for six dollars, the winner cutting and serving it to the crowd. This is the first of a series of benefits that will be given from time to time. Watch this paper for the next one. The club is in its extreme infancy, not yet a month old, but as it is an active one, learning to walk alone, and knows what it wants, and a g-r-e-a-t faculty for accepting all that might be donated, we see no reason why it should not wax and grow fat. Their motto should be, "Watch Us Grow."

On Saturday night, Oct. 25th, there'll be a Hallowe'en and Masquerade dance given in Mint Canyon's new school house. Remember the date and save it for that occasion. You know what a nice time you had at the opening dance, eats 'n everything, and this one will not be an exception. Your patronage is appreciated by those in charge for it means giving the kiddies what is coming to them. You remember the old saying, "What were once luxuries are now necessities," so we are extending to you the invitation to come to Mint Canyon school house on the night of Oct. 25. Thank you.

Mrs Lulu Johnson accompanied by her house guest and niece, Mrs Eddie Prickett, were entertained at the home of friends in Mint, last Saturday.

Mr and Mrs W. B. Baugher and Mr and Mrs G. A. Wright attended the Merchant's Exposition at San Fernando last Friday evening.

The food sale held at the Saugus Confectionery last Saturday by members and friends of Saugus Community Club was a great success. Our best cooks brewed and baked their favorite dishes for the sale. An interesting feature of the afternoon was the progressive auctioning of a delicious chocolate cake baked by one of our Club husbands, Walter Neale. Corn bread was baked by Albert Culver. Mr Neale auctioned the cake for $6.30, bringing a total of $38.00. Thank each and every one who helped to make the sale a success.

Cuckoo Superstitions

There are numerous superstitions associated with the hearing of the cuckoo's first call. In the maritime highlands and Hebrides if the cuckoo is first heard by one who has not broken his fast some misfortune is expected. Indeed, besides the danger, it is considered a reproach to one to have heard the cuckoo while hungry, says the Detroit News.

In France to hear the cuckoo for the first time fasting is to make the hearer "an idle do-nothing for the rest of the year" or "to numb his limbs" for the same period. There is a similar belief in certain parts of the west of England. In Northumberland one is told, if walking on a hard road when the cuckoo first calls, that the ensuing season will be full of calamity. To be on soft ground is a lucky omen.

Grateful for the Handout

By DUFORD PENNE

(Copyright)

MARY stopped short with a little gasp of surprise and shock. The lousing, ill-dressed, haggard figure on the park bench could be no other than Edwin, whom she had seen the last time three years before. The odd little quiver that her first sight of him used to give her went over her.

"Edwin, is it?" she asked hesitatingly.

"Hello, Mary. It's been many moons since I saw you last, and you suggested it be the last time," he answered a little bitterly.

His words stirred old memories. "Oh, Edwin, those—won't you come with me to lunch? I—I do want to chat with you again," she said hurriedly, feeling within her some old memories stir.

He agreed readily, and her quick mind told her that he was really hungry.

"I'll go, but you must pay the check. I'm clean broke," he said bluntly, joining her.

He was hardly a respectable figure beside her neat and attractive self, and many eyes were turned to them as they went on. But Mary did not care; some of the old happiness returned as she walked beside him.

In a sheltered corner of the restaurant, over a laden table, they finally faced each other.

"I haven't had a square meal in weeks," he admitted with his old frankness. "Now, don't tell me I am wasting my life, as you used to. I'm no good. I admit it."

"No, Edwin, I won't scold now. Then I had such bright hopes for you."

"Now you have given me up. I don't blame you. But I'm grateful for this hand-out."

"Don't," she begged. "I am still interested in you. Please be kind. Tell me of yourself."

He laughed harshly, then rapidly sketched his drifting from position to position and always downward. Then, gently, she told of her own work as secretary to one of the city's influential business men.

He listened grimly. "You have been successful enough for both of us."

She saw that her own success seemed to offend him, and she tried to change the subject.

"Now I must go. Mary, I thank you for feeding a beggar by the way."

"Please, Edwin."

"That's what I am. I don't want to see you pay the check, so I am going. So long."

He went quickly, leaving her almost in tears. He had chattered so much, and yet she caught glimpses, faint it is true, of the man she had loved.

She reached for her handbag, which she had hung over the back of her chair. The bag was gone. Her heart seemed to stop beating. Could he have taken the bag? In the confusion in her own mind the truth appeared. He and no other could possibly have taken it.

She waited until the tumult within her had quieted. Then she easily made arrangements to have the lunch charged, and with the world gray about her went back to the office.

In the weeks that grew to months and then to a year the deep wound of his not healed, leaving across her heart only the thin trace of a scar that gave to the outside world no hint of the depth of the wound beneath.

One day Mr. Shively, her employer, turned to her with some papers. "Mary, one of our western men is in the outer office. Please ask him to step in."

"She obeyed, and found herself face to face with Edwin, no longer sloven in appearance nor weak of face. His face was lined, but not with the corroding of discipline, rather the lines of self-discipline and steadfast purpose.

She stumbled back to her desk and listened to voices that sounded far away as she heard Mr. Shively praise him for his good work and assure him that there was work for him in the East; then she heard Edwin's voice. "May I see Miss Baker, just a moment, Mr. Shively?"

"Sure enough, Marsh. I did not know you were old friends. By the way, visit here in the office. It's about time for my afternoon game of golf anyway."

Mary heard the door close. She heard Edwin approach. Something was laid on her desk and opened. It was her handbag, everything in it intact; and with some hint of a man who had found himself, spoke gently. "Mary, I stole that, but it has been the making of me. I found in the bag that little photo of myself. It touched me to the very soul; and I made up my mind I would make good or die in the attempt—make good for the sake of the man you might have loved. I have been through hell, but I believe I have come through clean. I joined the western agency, and here I am. The thought of you has been very precious to me through this year of struggle. You will forgive me and not think too hard of me, won't you?"

She turned suddenly, saw the grief in his eyes, brown and luminous with what she knew was love for her; and the next moment her arms were around his neck, and his were about her, while the room seemed to fill with a shining peace and happiness.
