NEWHALL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 25, 1924

NUMBER 51

"For Each Other—Not Against Each Other."

"Sacramento Trail" Outfit on Newhall Location

Bowers' canyon, about three miles southeast of Newhall is a mighty live locality at the present time, due to the recent arrival on that location, of Wind River Bill, Judd D. Stevens, Jack Jaccard and a regular blue ribbon collection of wild and woolly cowboys and cowgirls, rarin' t' go. There are a hundred in all and they form a miniature village all to themselves. Bower's canyon isn't any more than just large enough to shelter them.

This little village has been transplanted in the Newhall district for the purpose of shooting a number of scenes in a brand new and thrilling Western serial to be released under the title of "The Sacramento Trail."

"Wind River" Bill and Judd Stevens, originally of Oklahoma and Wyoming, with one of the finest chuck wagon outfits we ever saw anywhere, are on the lot for and we can say for certain that nobody will ever feel the pangs of hunger while Bill and Judd are on the job.

Jack Jaccard, who directs the company, is one of the best known men in the picture game and has an enviable reputation on Western atmosphere. Some of his finest work in the past was in directing Marie Walcamp in the famous serial "The Red Glove." He has also directed Buck Jones and Tom Mix at various times. He is most ably assisted by Wilber McCraw who is known to be a very competent man in cinema work.

Neva Gerber heads the cast in the capacity of leading lady and she sure is all to the good, one of the "easiest" leading ladies to look at that we have ever seen. Edwin Cobb is leading man and we will wager that when this picture is shown on the screen there will be many a feminine heart go pitty-pat.

Wild Horse Mike Braham with a real 100 per cent collection of Arabian horses is one of the special features of the outfit. Mike is one of the most amiable cowboys we've ever met up with.

Clarence Jones, hailing from Edendale, is furnishing all the "prairie schooners," wild animals and "hard" cowboys. Jones is also an old hand at the movie game and his wild ones are WILD and we don't mean "maybe."

Man's Body Recovered From Dry Canyon Reservoir

The body of T. O. Schwensen, a former aqueduct employee, who was drowned about three months ago near the surge chamber, was recovered Monday evening from the Dry canyon reservoir.

At the time Schwensen lost his life the reservoir was dragged but no trace of the man could be found.

When the body was discovered last Sunday by Mr. Douglas, formerly a ranger in this district, it was floating near the surface and almost concealed by brush. Mr. Douglas reported his discovery to the local police and Ed Brown went up to assist in recovering the body.

At the Coroner's inquest held at the Noble parlors, San Fernando, Tuesday, Mrs. Schwensen identified the remains.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at the Soldiers' cemetery, Sawtelle, where the deceased was buried.

Celebrates 79th Birthday

The seventy-ninth birthday of Henry Kettle was fittingly celebrated at his home in Happy Valley, Sunday, Jan. 20, when the family enjoyed a happy reunion.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. L. Harunstein and daughter Vivian, also Mrs. S. Neily, of Val Verde, Mr. and Mrs. R. Jenkins and four children of Redondo Beach, Mr. and Mrs. David C. Kettle, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Kettle, daughter and husband, and Mr. and Mrs. T. Dixon, all of Los Angeles, Mrs. G. E. Johnson and son Earl, of Pasadena, and C. Weber, of Newhall.

assisted by Ed Linden. Where can you beat this combination for photography?

The boys were all gathered around the camp fires Thursday evening relating reminiscences of the old days. We gather from the remarks of one Mike Braham that there was once a cowboy who could ride any "fuzzy tail" that ever went up and with a flat saddle at that. We have our best suspicionings who that party is.

It is understood that some of our Newhall cowboys are evidently not accustomed to chuck wagons or they'd get around to breakfast on time. Which would also save them the trouble and disgrace of cooking their own bacon.

Newhall Woman's Club

The Newhall Woman's Club held an all day session in Hapalan Hall Wednesday, January 23.

The days program was planned by Mrs. McDermott chairman, assisted by Mesdames Coyle, Haskell and Thibaudeau who had arranged a luncheon which was served at noon.

After luncheon social activities ceased and the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Nina B. Wright. "America the beautiful" was sung by the assembly.

Minutes of previous meeting read by Secretary Mrs. Kee and approved.

A hearty response was manifested to the call for the Biennial gift when nearly every member contributed to the fund. Owing to this extra expense the members decided to have no Reciprocity Day this year.

The by-laws of Article I, Section 1, reading, "The regular meetings of this club shall be held the fourth Wednesday of each month at 2:00 P. M. except July and August were amended, thereby changing the date of meeting to every second Wednesday in the month.

Mrs. Agnes Taylor gave an interesting report on Current Events after which the wearing of the emblem was requested as well as subscribing to the Federation News and Club Woman.

A lengthy report of the President's Council held at the Catholic Woman's Club House in Los Angeles was read by the president.

A splendid lecture on "How to teach our girls and boys self confidence" was delivered by Judge Mayo Thomas of Los Angeles a few excerpts from which are here given. "In the great make-up of life there are no accidents as things do not happen, but are largely due to what we make them. Confidence in one's self is all. Never let adversity or obstacles mar your self confidence as it is the progenitor of grace and being saturated with it, means success. The training of the child is the most delicate problem of today, its destiny depending on the parents and environment. Evil responds to evil and ability to ability." The speaker urged parents to refrain from nagging, and to encourage any tendency to genius.

As the meeting fell on the Club's second birthday a beauti-

Three Arrested for Starting Brush Fires

Paul Young, a lad 15 years of age, whose parents have a homestead near Gorman station, was arrested early this week by Deputy County Firewarden Freeman for setting a fire on the Ralph ranch.

According to reports the boy is not inclined to be unruly or wayward in any respect but seems to be possessed of a mania for setting fires. In his confession made to Firewarden Graves the boy admitted having set the Marshall canyon fire and also two others in Cottonwood canyon. The boy was brot before Judge Miller who in turn bound him over to Juvenile Court.

Chester Smith, of San Francisco canyon, was recently arrested by Firewarden Daries for allowing a brush fire to escape. This case was turned over to Ranger Peterson as the fire was on National Forest land.

William Losch, of Mint canyon, was arrested Wednesday by Firewarden Daries for allowing a fire to escape and was given a 90-day suspended sentence.

ful birthday cake decorated in the Club colors of red, white and blue was provided by the committee and presented by Mrs. Thibaudeau. A toast was made by the president hoping for a continuation of the Club's life and that it may ever co-operate with the great things worth while. Mr. Thomas gave a toast on "Life."

While coffee and cake were being served to the fifty members and visitors present Mr. Thomas gave another toast in which he lauded women in the work they are doing. Before leaving Mr. Thomas again addressed the Club giving reasons for the world war which he summed up in the one word "Commercialism."

This meeting was the best during the club year so far, much enthusiasm and interest being shown.

The next regular meeting of the Club will be held February 13 and do not forget the new date.

The Club members are grateful to Mrs. Lane for the leaflets bearing the words of our beautiful song "America the beautiful."

The flavors being sold by the Club may be had at the Newhall Drugstore.

The Calvary of the Poor

People who are afraid to face the truth are met everywhere.

Reality has slipped out of the focus of our distorted vision. We live in an artificial atmosphere of prosperity and sanctimonious charity bazaars. Our talk is confined to cheap self-glorification and meaningless slogans. We have adopted tar and feathers as our national emblem and our idea of courage consists of knocking down the man who disagrees with us. We have become a nation of moral cowards who exult in crucifying the few courageous souls that dare into the public square with the warning word of truth.

Yet we cannot escape the ruthless fact that beneath the thin oil surface of poltroon complacency and bigotry, the tide of life flows on irresistibly to its inevitable goal. It is but a question of time when the gathering storm--imperceptible to our perverted senses--will smash our frail boat of make-believe against the rocks of reality.

How pitifully blind we are! Once every year, at yuletide, we ooze over with unctious benevolence to our fellow-men, in the name of Christ, whom our prototypes crucified twenty centuries ago. Once every year we suddenly discover that there are millions of poor and destitute everywhere in this millionaire's land of ours, and they become the objects of our solicitude for a few days.

It never once occurs to us that we alone are responsible for their misery; that they are the helpless victims of our greed and avariciousness, and year after year we complacently go on adding to their number and making their lot more miserable.

The truth is that, in place of the overt slavery of two generations ago, we have built up a covert industrial slavery that is a thousand times more vicious, a thousand times more destructive.

Instead of the lone Christ, with the wooden cross, today we are driving a ceaseless stream of our victims up the Golgotha of poverty, and there charitably distribute a few Christmas presents among them before we crucify them.

The truth hurts because we are guilty, and instead of abolishing the real cause of our social putrefaction, we drug our senses with ton-loads of written and spoken dope and senselessly stone our prophets. But the day of reckoning is not far off and we cannot escape it.

--Pearson's, Jan. 1924

How Long?

How long can a nation afford to squander billions of dollars a year in non-productive enterprises? No nation but one like our own with billions to squander could stand it. The worst of it is that the men who are responsible for most of our economic waste are in executive positions. They are supposed to understand business and economic fundamentals. But the assumption is groundless. They have been too busy working to learn how to work efficiently. The next ten years will see an end to much of our business guessing and the failure of the guessers. We have reached the period when the dear public is no longer satisfied to pay five dollars for an article that cost but one dollar to manufacture.

NATURE'S PRODIGALS

By JAMES W. FOLEY

He is gettin' back to Nature after thirty years away,
He's been busy chasin' dollars while his health has gone astray;
He forgot about his stomach till it went upon a strike,
An' he's humped up an' bent over, sort o' sour an' peevish like;
He ain't had no rest, I reckon, fer a score o' years an' ten
He's been diggin', diggin', diggin', with a day off now an' then;
He's been starvin' every longin' of his heart an' soul in town,
An' he's gettin' back to Nature when his works is nigh run down.

He's got everything that's goin' that a moneyed man can buy,
But his step is slow an' heavy—there's no sparkle in his eye;
He can write his check for thousands an' they'll cash it too, all right,
But there ain't no bank will cash it when it's drawn on appetite;
He's got dignities an' honors, an' he's stored a sight o' wealth,
He's got stocks an' bonds, an' titles, an' most everything but health,
An' he found out when he lost it that he held it mighty cheap,
For he'd give a thousand dollars for a night o' restful sleep.

He is gettin' back to Nature, but I wonder what he'll say
When she asks him for th' treasures that he's wasted by th' way;
For she gave him every blessin' that a mortal man should get,
An' he traded 'em for money an' he's got th' money yet,
An' he can't buy nothin' with it that he really wants to buy,
An' th' price he paid for riches, it was purty middlin' high;
So he's gettin' back to Nature, in his lifetime's dusk and gloam,
When he's wasted all his substance—like a prodigal come home.

There are gettin' back to Nature, by a hundred paths an' ways,
Bringin' bribes of hard-earned money to exchange for restful days;
Bringin' wealth to trade for hunger, but the tradin' mighty light,
For here ain't no U. I. O. L. I. E. t' buy sleep an' appetite,
They are gettin' back to Nature, but she's closed an' barred th' gate,
Where she wished 'em well an' left 'em—they are gettin' back too late,
An' they stand there vainly pleadin' in their lifetime's dusk an' gloam,
When they've wasted all their treasures—Nature's prodigals come home.

"THE VIRGINIAN"

When Owen Wister wrote "The Virginian," his story was constructed around the ambitions and career of a real flesh and blood character, a man with whom he frequently came in contact in everyday life. He did not have to draw very much on his imagination when he presented the Virginian, for this great character was also Wister's great friend. The Virginian's sterling qualities and high principles appealed to Wister so strongly that he was able to weave them into a romance that has been read and loved by millions, a romance that will live eternally.

It is hardly fair to say that "The Virginian" is America's greatest romance because "The Great Divide" has several points of superiority. However, Wister's story is one of the most vivid analogies of the Old West that has ever come to the screen. This picture was shown at Cody's this week and made a pronounced hit.

Kenneth Haglan, as the Virginian, and Florence Vidor, as Molly Wood, are a combination hard to equal in romantic drama. The supporting cast was excellent.

Those who have not seen "The Last Hour," with Milton Sills and Carmel Myers, should see it at Cody's tomorrow nite. This picture is a real thriller and will make your hair stand up straight—if you have any.

JOHN MUIR OF THE SIERRAS

John Muir, the late California naturalist, understood the majestic Sierras quite as well as any man who ever lived within their shadows. He was, in fact, a part of them, always in tune with their deepest mysteries and infinite glory. He was a friend of every living creature that dwelled in the "silent places." He held communion with the beasts, the birds, the flowers and the trees and it seems he understood and spoke the language of each of them in turn. It was his custom to tramp for days at a time, among the giant redwoods, over the silken sod of long forgotten trails. He climbed to dizzy heights in the Rockies, seldom becoming weary or fatigued. It is a well known fact that he went out into the hills for days at a time, giving little heed to eating or sleeping. It was not unusual for him to go several days on a slice of bread. He had no fear of any animal that ever drew the breath of life and no animal had fear of him. He lived a simple, tho radiant life, always quite close to the Divine. He wrote of the things he understood, with a humble and modest pen.

The world has already profited greatly thru the faith of John Muir, and it will profit much more as the years roll by and humanity in general draws closer to Nature.

What a great wealth of understanding Muir combined in the following lines: "Climb the mountains and get their good tidings. Nature's peace will flow into you as sunshine flows into trees. The winds will blow their own freshness into you, and the storms their energy, while cares will drop off like autumn leaves."

BADGE BANDIT STILL AT LARGE

Harry Dunlap, the "badge bandit," appears to be leading the police a merry chase. This bird is as crafty as he is brutal and may evade capture for a considerable time. He now has a price on his head that will make his capture worth while. It is said that he has recently been seen in the vicinity of Saugus, Soledad and Boquet, but none of the local officers have been able to locate him. At least, they have not yet returned with his scalp. However, you can bet your life they don't lack the nerve to go after it.

SAUGUS ITEMS

A number of Saugus ladies attended the all day session of the Newhall Woman's Club, Wednesday.

A Ford coupe driven by two Los Angeles men went skylarking out into a barbwire fence in Mint canyon one day this week and turned over. The car is now in a "convalescent" state at Wood's garage.

An indoor baseball game was played at the Saugus school, last Sunday, between the Saugus and Newhall boys. The score stood 17 to 3 in favor of the home team. A feature of the game was the playing of Billie Neale for Saugus. The playing of Fred Cook for the Newhall quintet was worthy of much praise.

Newhall, you were defeated,
Newhall, you are so blue,
But don't think we bear ill feelings;

For we sympathize with you.
Go back to the town you came from

And tell the folks that wait,
That the Saugus team plays baseball,

But you found it out too late.
Next Sunday the Saugus boys are going to play the Saugus men.

Woman's Club Presidents' Council in Session

The Council of the presidents of the Women's Clubs of the Los Angeles District was held January 11th, 1924 at the Catholic Woman's Club House in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Chas. H. Toll, president of the district, conducted the meeting in her usual charming manner. After reading minutes of last Council "America the beautiful" was sung.

Mrs. McKelvey gave an instructive talk on Parliamentary Law.

She said "support your president and governing powers whenever possible." Said someone of discretion should be chosen for publicity work. Advised against bringing business before an open meeting.

Mrs. Copeland spoke interestingly on the three percent immigration based on the 1910 census. There are 100 immigrant bootleggers coming into this country every day. Mentioned the advice of the Secretary of Labor which was that every young man go thru high school and learn a trade.

Mrs. Labee then rendered a group of songs accompanied by Mrs. McPherron on the piano.

Mrs. Larbeer, vice-president of Los Angeles District C. F. W. C. and president of the L. U. B. A. "Let us become acquainted," a Long Beach club, said the Federation was like Topsy, it just grew. We now have 180 clubs in the Los Angeles District, the first being in 1900. Mrs. Larbeer said the Federation makes no distinction of class or nation.

Mrs. Toll gave a short report of the Council held in Santa Barbara January 9th.

Four new clubs have joined and our President requested that they be invited to Reciprocity Day meetings.

Mrs. Timerhoff is giving a prize to the one sending in the most subscriptions to the Federation News by February 1st.

An hour was given over to luncheon in the great dining room on the second floor of the Club House.

Mrs. Exley gave a short talk on the Biennial for which $8,000.00 has been raised besides other pledges.

Mr. Garnett representing a fire insurance company gave appalling figures regarding the loss of life and property.

Mrs. Heywood of the drama section said that millions patronize the theatre and that we may yet reach a higher understanding and attain peace thru the drama.

Club members are urged to register at once.

A splendid lecture was given on International Relations by Mrs. Galpin.

POSTAL SERVICE 500 YEARS BEFORE CHRIST

The history of the postal service goes back as far as the sixth century, B. C., and may be called the handmaid of civilization. We can trace it from the dispatch bearer of the Assyrian and Roman times to the airplane service of the present day.

In the book of Esther in the Bible you will find how letters were sent thousands of years ago. There it tells how King Ahasuerus, learning from Queen Esther that Haman had ordered the death of all the Jews in the land commended Mordecia to call together the scribes and send letters to every province of the kingdom forbidding the massacre. This is the verse that describes the sending of the messengers:

And he wrote in the King Ahasuerus' name, and sealed it with the King's ring, and sent letters by posts on horseback, and riders on mules, camels and young draught animals.

The Romans, too, sent their letters by mounted messengers, or "couriers" as they were called. The courier carried the message about twenty miles, when he would come to a "posta," where another messenger was stationed with a fresh horse. He, in turn, would be relieved by still another courier when he reached the next post. Thus relay after relay the letter was sped on as fast as man and horse could carry it until at last it arrived at its destined "posta," meaning station or stopping place, and it is from that word that we obtain the word "post" as found in postoffice, postcard and many similar words.

Regarding Motorists Who Carry Revolvers

Motorists carrying revolvers or other deadly weapons concealed on their person or in the automobile are in danger of arrest and conviction unless they have a special license, according to the State Motor Vehicle law as explained by the legal department of the Automobile Club of Southern California in answer to queries.

The new law declared it unlawful for any person to carry firearms concealed without a proper license, and it makes this act a misdemeanor.

Motorists desiring to carry such weapons as a means of self-protection must apply to the sheriff, the board of police commissioners or the chief of police for a license. Such applications must be made in writing, giving the name, occupation, business and residence address, description of the applicant and specifying the sort of weapon it is proposed to carry. Reasons for desiring to carry a weapon also must be given.

One of the exceptions in the law is that it is permissible for licensed hunters or fishermen to carry revolvers while engaged in hunting or fishing or while going to or returning from such expeditions. There are other exceptions with reference to peace officers, members of the army, navy and national guard.

There are also drastic provisions with reference to blackjacks, sand clubs or metal knuckles. It is a felony for any person to carry concealed upon his person any dirk or dagger. It is permissible, however, to carry hunting knives open in a sheath suspended from the waist. Firearms also may be carried openly in belt holsters.

The law imposes severe punishment upon any person who commits any felony while carrying a concealed weapon. At least five years additional punishment for carrying such a weapon without a license may be given.

The Boy Scouts

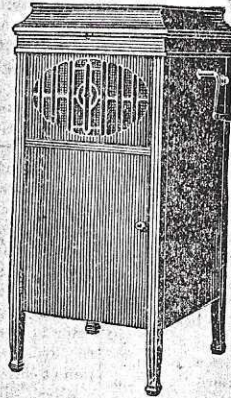

Tomorrow, Saturday, the Boy Scouts will gather up your old newspapers and magazines which they will turn into cash for the benefit of the organization.

The boys have been on a hiking trip and spent a nite in camp at the Republic oil lease in Bowers' canyon. Some of the boys took a cooking test while on this trip.

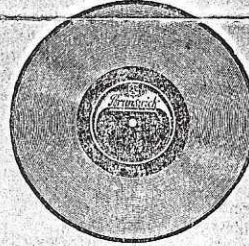

National Secretary of Camp Fire Girls to Visit L. A.

Gertrude Heintz, national field secretary of the Camp Fire Girls, will shortly arrive in Los Angeles from the east to establish a permanent office for the organization and to further organization plans. To greet her, active plans are being made for a rousing reception by a great number out of the 1000 members of the Los Angeles chapter.

The subject of the Sunday School lesson is "Saved at the Red Sea."

The C. E. service will be held at 7 p. m. and will open with an old time song service, assisted by the C. E. chorus. Come and help us with these services. We feel that you will receive a blessing. The Lord has sent us some loyal workers to help us, for which we are very grateful.

Last Sunday the following places were represented: Los Angeles, Antelope Valley, Sulphur Springs, Castaic, Honby, Pico Canyon, Saugus and Mint Canyon.

Rev. Evans has been invited to preach over the Times broadcasting station on February 3rd at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

Rev. W. H. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wilkie, Blanche Wilkie, Donald Wilkie, Mrs. E. Wilson and Mr. Bebee attended the dedication service of the Cypress Park Presbyterian Church. Rev. F. W. Mitchell delivered the cornerstone dedication sermon here in Newhall last summer and we all join in congratulating him and his people on the completion of their beautiful modern church building. Dr. Bringleib, of the West Lake Presbyterian Church, delivered a very interesting sermon on the following text, "Stretch Forth Thy Hand."

Miracle of Illumination

By MYRA CURTIS LANE

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

THE Works monopolized him—that husband of hers who had sworn to love and cherish and protect her, thought Barbara bitterly. That was what came of marrying a man out of pique because one's sweetheart had gone away and left one.

Barbara had been all but engaged to Richard Nevins before she ever met Cyrus Hoadley. But they had quarreled, and Dick had gone away, and Mr. Hoadley had asked her again and—

That was three years ago, and Dick was back in town again.

Cyrus didn't know that, but then he knew and cared for nothing except the Chemical Works. And Dick was standing in front of Barbara, pleading.

"Barbara, it was all a ghastly mistake. I never ceased to care for you. I was coming back to tell you so, when I heard you were married. Then I went West, and I'm rich now, Barbara."

She lifted her eyes coolly to his, amazed that he could not see how her heart was hurting. It was astounding that he could not hear that heavy

"My sister wrote me that your marriage had been a mistake, that you didn't care for him—"

That was Dick's first mistake. He had always been a little lacking in tact—poor Dick. That had been at the root of their bitter quarrel. Some instinct had told Barbara that Dick was not quite thoroughbred. But then there was her love for him. That love she had denied.

He did not see how she resented the fact of her unhappiness becoming the gossip of the town.

Dick seized her hands. "Barbara, I've come back to tell you that I still love you."

"You—you have no right to tell me, Dick," she faltered. Oh, how hard it was to resist him when all her heart went out in longing toward him.

"Barbara!" Dick's face was very near her own. "I want you to come West with me and let us begin a new life together. Will you leave everything for love's sake, Barbara?"

A sudden ringing of the telephone interrupted them. Coolly Barbara detached her hands and went to the instrument. She took down the receiver. Next moment she had hung it up and was looking at Dick with a ghastly expression on her face.

"There's been an accident at the Works," she faltered. "My husband has been badly hurt. You must go now."

And even then he hadn't the tact to see that for the immediate present his moment had passed. Presently the ambulance came up with Cyrus Hoadley.

He had been badly burned. The doctor held out no hope of life. There would be intense suffering for a few days, then—the end.

That struggle was the hardest Barbara had ever endured. Sitting beside the rich man, hearing her name mentioned in his delirium, tending him, fighting down her love for Dick—

He came every day to inquire, but it was on the day of the crisis that he spoke again:

"Barbara, I hear Doctor Bentwich has said that there's no chance of his recovery. I don't want to bother you, Barbara, but it's a miracle of luck for us. When it's all over we—"

Barbara never knew what impulse made her turn on Dick so fiercely, and she listened to her voice as if it had come from strange lips.

"Dick," she said, "when you leave me—immediately—I want you never to enter this house again or attempt to speak to me. That's my answer."

An ugly sneer curved his lips. "So you've made a fool of me again?"

"I'm true to my husband as long as he lives."

"Well, he won't live, don't worry." Dick flung himself out of the house, and never to the last day of his life did he understand.

But Barbara was sitting beside her husband and listening again to the delicious tale of his love for her. He had known there was another, he had tried to forget by shutting himself up with his business, but he loved her.

Toward dawn the delirious man came slowly back to consciousness. He looked at her incredulously.

"You, Barbara? The—the accident—"

She bent and kissed him. "Hush, dearest. It's all right now, everything."

He seized her hand. "Barbara, I—I thought—"

"I know, dear. That was a mistake too," she answered.

She had never seen him smile so contentedly as when he dropped off to sleep. She sat there till the doctor entered.

"Why, Mrs. Hoadley, you've worked a miracle," he exclaimed. "I believe he's got a chance now."

Barbara only smiled. It was the miracle of illumination.

NOW IS THE TIME TO ORDER YOUR FORD

Important among other indications that the New Year will see a vastly increased demand for automobiles is the "Buy Now" campaign which has just been launched by the Ford Motor Company.

Particular significance may be attached to this, coming as it does at the very start of the year, for no company in the industry is better situated to sense future conditions in the motor car field no keep more closely in touch with the temper of the motor buying public.

Through its great dealer organization, approximately 10,000, the company is able to obtain very accurate reports covering all parts of the country. That the outlook indicates a greater demand than ever during the coming year seems apparent in the action of inaugurating a "Buy Now" campaign at this time.

A year ago a shortage was seen and the public advised, but the demand which developed during the spring and early summer months exceeded all expectations with the result that production failed to meet it and more than 350,000 persons were disappointed in not being able to get Ford cars. Practically all through the year it was necessary to maintain a constantly increasing production schedule in order to keep up more closely with the demand. Even with that deliveries were extremely slow.

In view of the company's experience last year the "Buy Now" campaign just starting comes as a warning suggestion to the car buyer and reflects a condition which presages an even greater car shortage during the coming spring and summer.

There has been an unusual demand for Ford cars and trucks so far this winter. In some cases dealers already are compelled to designate later delivery dates on certain types of cars.

In this connection an interesting feature is the already noticeable increase in enrollments under the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan. More than 200,000 have enrolled, for everywhere throughout the country people are more and more using the plan as a sure means of arranging car delivery at the time desired and as a result there has been a noticeable growth in the number of enrollments, particularly during the last few months.
