"For Each Other---Not Against Each Other."

Homesights on Santa Barbara National Forest

The Santa Barbara National Forest has long been a favorite region with campers, sportsmen and mountain climbers. Nowhere in California are there trails possessing more charm for the hiker than those along the Coast Range from Gaviota on the west to Ojai Valley on the east. Live oaks, more beautiful than those along the Santa Ynez River, at Oak flat and in Boquet Canyon are not to be found anywhere. The waters of the Santa Ynez, Sespe and Piru Rivers abound with fish. Deer and quail are plentiful in the chapparal. The climate is ideal. Even in winter there are few days when outdoor life is unpleasant.

It is not every one however, who enjoys tent life and sleeping in the open. There are many who want comfort and conveniences in camp life. For those desiring comforts the Forest Service has made possible new sorts of outings—vacations spent in permanent camps or in summer homes built on sites rented from the Government.

The most desirable localities in the Santa Barbara Forest for this purpose have been set aside and surveyed into lots. These lots can be rented for periods of from one year to fifteen and at rentals ranging from $10 to $25 a year.

In Southern California Most Forest Fires are Man-Caused

Practically all the mountain and forest fires in Southern California are man caused. Out of 64 fires on the Santa Barbara last year, just one resulted from the Act of God—lightening. The fire problem in the Santa Barbara is an extremely difficult one because of the fact that the vast forest watershed areas are highly inflammable over a long season. Fires start readily and burn rapidly. All the more reason why we should be doubly careful, since our wealth—water—is conserved in these watersheds.

A law should be passed, requiring everyone who goes into the mountains to use safety matches—and "home-made" cigarettes.

Forest Protection Week and Arbor Day --- 1924

By the President of the United States of America
A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, it is essential to the continued comfort, welfare and prosperity of the people of the United States that abundant forests, widely distributed and maintained in a condition of high productiveness, be forever wisely conserved as one of our greatest natural resources; and

WHEREAS, because of our constantly increasing need for wood and other forest products, together with our past failure to provide for reforestation, we are drawing upon our supplies of timber four times as fast as they are renewed thru growth; and

WHEREAS, the most formidable agency of forest destruction and prevention of reforestation is fire and, of the fires which annually devastate vast areas, four-fifths are ascribed to origin to human agencies and, virtually all may be averted and made innocuous thru prudence, care and vigilance;

T. I. CALVIN COOLIDGE, President of the United States, urge upon the Governors of the various States to designate and set apart the week of April 21-27, 1924, as Forest Protection Week, and, wherever practicable and not in conflict with State law or accepted customs, to celebrate Arbor Day within that week. I also urge all citizens, either in association or as individuals, all schools and the press of the land to give common thought to the protection of our forests from fire, to the end that, in the future as in the past, these forests may supply us with wood, protect the purity of our streams, and otherwise serve the people of the United States.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this 15th day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-eighth.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

By the President;
CHARLES E. HUGHES,
Secretary of State.

To Help Protect the Forests---

Leave a clean camp and a dead fire.

Make "Care with Fire" your watchword in the woods.

Be sure your camp fire is dead; then bury it.

Put out that "snipe." A one-cent cigarette may start a $10,000 fire.

Bear in mind that fire and forests won't mix---don't try.

Be a good woodsman; leave a clean camp and a clean record.

Remember that it takes a century to regrow a forest.

A Few National Forest Facts In Brief

Once upon a time an old Indian was asked the difference between a white man and an Indian and the latter replied, "White man build um heap big fire,—sit way back; Indian build um leetle bit fire,—sit close up." So, in building your camp fire, be an Indian.

Nearly 5,000 recreational special use permits are in effect in California National Forests. The permittees are from all walks in life and the cabins, residences, lodges, hotels and resorts built by them, range in cost from $200 to $40,000.

The recreation of the Southern California mountains, our city and valley folks are taking advantage of the opportunity to have a home in the mountains. Sixty-five residence permits have been issued on the Santa Barbara since January 1, of this year.

The Boy Scouts have established a number of camps on the Forests during the past two years. Three Scout camps are maintained on the Santa Barbara and at least two more will be established this summer.

The Santa Barbara was host to 1,310,000 visitors last year, of which number a million were transient motorists.

The slogan of our fire fighting organization is, "Get 'em while they're little!" Last year, 85 per cent of our fires were held to 10 acres or less. Over 50 per cent burned less than one-quarter acre each—BUT, we had three fires on the Santa Barbara last season that burned 100,000 acres.

Smoking in the woods and camp fires left unextinguished, cause a majority of the forest fires each year. It is surprising the number of people who don't know that a pot of wet coffee grounds will not put out a camp fire.

Help Protect California's Forest Wealth

A Suggested Address for Schools,
Compiled by N. E. Peterson,
District Ranger, Newhall

HALL WE reduce fire losses in California by individual co-operation and care, or allow our valuable forests to become unproductive acres and an overwhelming public burden?

"Forest Protection Week," proclaimed by President Coolidge in accordance with precedent first established in 1921 by the late President Harding, will be observed throuth the nation during the period April 21 to 27, inclusive. Of the numerous weeks dedicated to worthy purposes, this week is closely related to the continued well-being and prosperity of California as this week, which has for its objective the awakening of the public conscience to a realization of the value of our magnificent forests and the necessity for their wise use and perpetuation.

Thruout the centuries, world civilization has been constructed on a foundation of wood, and the high plane of American culture, of which we boast, is due primarily to industrial and social progress made possible by an unlimited wealth of forest resources. "A country without trees is a country without hope," and the pages of history are replete with examples of nations that have lost their high places in the council of the world thru the ruthless destruction of their forests.

The spectre of waning timber resources has already cast a lengthening shadow over a large part of the United States. The vast pines of Maine and the Lake States have passed into history; the "inexhaustible" forests of the south are rapidly following in their wake, and "the most wonderful forests the world ever knew," the heritage of every American, are making their last stand against the westward sweep of civilization in the rugged mountain ranges that overlook the Pacific. Fifty per cent. of all the virgin timber left in the United States today is confined to three states, California, Oregon and Washington. Of this supply 14 per cent. is in California.

The forest lands of the Golden State are one of its greatest natural assets. They cover a total of 15,500,000 acres, an area greater in size than the combined area of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. In value they represent over 750 million dollars. They contain sufficient lumber to build 43,000,000 five room bungalows. More than 25,000 men are engaged in lumbering and wood using industries which annually turn out products valued at $100,000,000.

We may treat all this wealth of forest resources like those that are "mined," never to be replaced; or we may, by combining scientific management with sensible utilization and protection, make them sufficiently productive to supply all our future timber needs.

The greatest destructive agency to the forests is FIRE. California, with 15,500,000 acres owned over, was a fire-prone state in the Union in 1923, 70 per cent of the 240 fires that occurred being man-caused, thru carelessness.

It is the duty of everyone who has the interests of California at heart to make every week--

Forest Protection Week

Fire Protection Week is each year set aside by Presidential Proclamation as a time to bring to the attention of the American people the vast unnecessary wastage of our forests by fire and to devise means whereby the appalling losses shall be curtailed, if not eliminated. The governors of many states issued proclamations supplementing the one issued by President Coolidge.

Forest Protection Week is a national affair. It is not an exclusive party for any single organization, public or private. On the contrary it is actively participated in by organizations interested in outdoor life, in game and wild life, in water resources and in economics and civic matters. Lumber companies, wood-using manufacturers, and kindred business interests are among the general business interests of the country which take an active part in observing this week.

One of World's Most Famous Mountain Roads

Overlooking Los Angeles, Cal., is one of the world's most remarkable mountain roads, extending from Laurel canyon to the summit of Lookout mountain. While just wide enough for one vehicle, the road is perfectly safe for automobiles, as it is built to ascend by one route and descend by another. The curves, hairpin turns, switch-backs, etc., are numerous, but all built so scientifically that there is no danger. The road is carved from the side of a hill which is so precipitous that in one place there are six levels rising one above the other, all visible from the same point; in fact, the hill appears to be terraced with the zig-zag of highway. The surface is of decomposed granite and the outside edge has been fenced with stout timbers.

From the summit—occupied by a summer hotel—one has a view that is without a rival on the Pacific coast. The ocean is but a few miles distant, with the Santa Catalina and San Clemente islands on the horizon, while along the shore are the score of towns and resorts built upon the sands. About thirty cities and towns are visible from the summit, with Los Angeles almost directly below.

Solving the Problem

A young salesman had embezzled from his kind hearted employer a considerable sum of money, and had lost every cent of it on the races. He was apprehended, and the boss didn't know just what to do about it.

"Keep him on the job and deduct what he owes you from his pay," counseled the adviser.

"But," wailed the victim, "the amount is too large. He could never make it up that way. His wages are too small."

The other ruminated for a moment. Then his face cleared.

"Well, then, raise his salary," he suggested.

SOMEHOW DIFFERENT

(Author Unknown)

Before we had money, we lived in a flat,
The dear little woman and I,
There wasn't much danger of us getting fat,
And the cellar was painfully dry.
But though we now boast of a house in Duluth
And go there in passenger coaches,
That house, it don't seem like the home of our youth,
For a home ain't a home without roaches.

We now have twelve slaves at our beck and our call,
And Navajo rugs on the floor,
A platinum hat rack stands out in the hall,
There's a pearl-studded knob on the door.
Sweet mother goes 'round with a mouthful of gold,
And wears South American brooches,
But somehow she ain't the same gal as of old—
And home ain't a home without roaches.

The house that we live in has vermin enough
To satisfy most folks' taste;
In fact, many servants have quit in a huff
With bites from the neck to the waist.
The mice and the rats and the weasels crowd in
By thousands as winter approaches,
And mother and I—well, we bear it and grin,
But a home ain't a home without roaches.

"STRONGHEART" AT HIS BEST

HERE are three things that stand out vividly in the memory of anyone who has seen "The Love Master" at Cody's this week.

The most impressive feature is the wonderful, almost human, acting of the police dog, Strongheart, and his "leading lady," Lady Julie, the beautiful white dog that is seen in all Strongheart's pictures.

It is difficult to find words to express clearly, an appreciation of the impressive work of these two animals. There is no sham or pretension in the love of a dog for his master. The affection of a dog is constant, loyal and forgiving unto the end, without exception and Strongheart, expresses these virtues clearly in "The Love Master."

The beautiful natural settings, combined with outdoor photography that is in a class by itself, make this picture an artistic triumph that will wait long for an equal.

The scene depicting a sledge-dog race is quite the finest bit of Northland realism we have ever seen on the screen.

ONE REAL MAN

THE courage and prowess of the Texas Rangers, who upheld the law along the border in the days when the West was young, is well known.

The following story is told by a man who lived in Texas in the early days:

A riot broke out one morning on the streets of Oklahoma City among rival sheepmen and cattlemen. About 500 men were mixed up in the argument and the situation was intense. Many combatants were paying with their lives. The police were panic-stricken.

Finally a riot call was sent to the nearest Texas Ranger station. In about an hour, a lone horseman rode up in front of the Post Office in the disturbed city and called out to a frightened man standing on the porch:

"Did you folks send for the Rangers?"

"We did, sir," came the reply in a weak voice.

"Well, here we are," said the man on the horse.

The man on the porch could hardly believe his eyes. "Are you the only one they sent?" he asked.

"Why sure," replied the Ranger, "there's only one riot isn't there?"

At that he wheeled his horse and rode down the street in the direction of the trouble and proceeded to do his stuff.

And Oklahoma City hasn't had a riot since.

THE JOYS OF BEING AN EDITOR

Editing a "Question and Answer" department of a newspaper is no soft snap. One chap we know of got away with the job like a man. Here's a few questions asked him together with his answers:

1. Do small cows give condensed milk?—Mabel D.
No, Mabel; condensed milk is made by trying to get a quart of milk in a pint bottle.
2. Please tell me how hash is made.
—Lizzie Surebuff.
Hash isn't made; it accumulates.
3. Is it all right to feed hogs corn in the ear?—G. K.
No. Put it in a trough and let them help themselves.
4. I am in love with a homely girl who works for us, but she does not seem to care for me, while a pretty girl with lots of money wants me to marry her. What shall I do?—Bill.

Marry the one you love and send me the name and address of the other.

5. My hair is beginning to come out. What can I get to keep it in?—A. B.

A sack.

6. Please tell me how to raise a nice fat hog of about 500 pounds.—Z.

Get a derrick.

7. I am forty years old, have a nice little farm and am thinking of taking a wife. What would you advise?—Old Bach.

Would advise you to be careful whose wife you take.

BEFORE linotype machines came into general use in newspaper printing plants, all type was set by hand, and quite often a printer in those early days, would show up on the job intoxicated. One Monday morning an editor handed to a printer, to be set into type, copy of a wedding announcement and a notice of an auction sale. Here is what the editor found when he was handed the printer's "proof:"

"Wm. Smith and Miss Lucy Anderson were disposed of at public auction at my farm one mile east of a beautiful cluster of roses on her breast and two white calves, before a background of farm implements too numerous to mention in the presence of about 70 guests, including two milch cows, six mules and one bob sled. Rev. Jackson tied the nuptial knot with 200 feet of hay rope and the bridal couple left on one good John Deere gang plow for an extended trip with terms to suit purchasers. They will be at home to their friends with one good baby buggy and a few kitchen utensils after ten months from date of sale, to responsible parties and some fifty chickens."

Here are a few DONT'S which must be observed:

Don't allow any livestock off your premises.

Don't congregate with an assembly of people.

Don't go camping.

Don't move livestock feed stuffs without special permit and supervision.

Don't move livestock unless imperatively necessary, then only by permit.

Don't enter any infected or quarantined area.

Don't allow outside livestock to enter your premises.

Don't fail to report strays—cattle, sheep, hogs, dogs, cats and chickens.

Don't relax vigilance for an instant.

Don't fail to construct a sheep or creosote dip disinfecting trough so that all vehicles, or animals that might pass in or out of your premises will be disinfected as to hoofs, tires or wheels.

AND ABOVE ALL:

Don't fail to notify or report to your nearest Veterinarian at the first symptoms of anything unusual in your livestock, such as drooping ears, lameness, slobbering or reduced milk supply.

Do not forget that many cattle graze on the National Forest ranges. Where the water supply is limited, camp should be made far enuf away from water to let stock use it. Dogs should not be allowed to run stock, and indiscriminate shooting may cause the loss of human life, as well as of livestock.

Burned forests build no homes.

Metals Are Transparent When Subjected to Heat

Very thin films of certain metals become transparent at heats not nearly sufficient to melt them. For instance, if we take a sheet of gold leaf somewhat thinner than the paper on which this is printed and heat it by an electrical current to temperature of about 2,400 degrees Fahrenheit, it will become as transparent as a pane of green-colored glass. If carefully kept from drafts very much finer sheets of gold leaf can thus be heated by clamping them on frames of marble or slate and applying the current through the metal strips which clamp each end of the sheet.

When this is done with gold leaf of about one-hundredth the thickness of ordinary paper and the current is gradually increased until the temperature reaches 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit, the leaf becomes not only translucent, but transparent, so that it is actually possible to see through it. For apparently the same reason silver foil, which requires only 2,250 degrees to make it clearly transparent, shows a bluish-violet tint. Copper foil has also been made transparent in this way, but remains so only for a short time, as it combines with the oxygen of air when thus heated, and the resulting compound is not transparent.

Yucatan's Vehicles

Yucatan clings to antiquated means of transportation, which include the carreta, the coche, the volan and the volante, although the introduction of automobiles bids fair to eliminate these vehicles. The carreta is a heavy two-wheeled truck; the coche, a light four-wheeled, rubber tired, rigid topped carriage, with body supported on heavy leather straps, for travel on rocky country roads, similar to the stage coach of America's old west, and the volante, a very heavy fourwheeled vehicle somewhat like a victoria, but with the body supported on heavy leather straps, used for rough travel in the rural districts.

New Stock Issue by Edison Company

Authority to issue and sell $10,000,000.00 par value of six percent Preferred stock, known as Series "B", was granted to the Southern California Edison Company by the State Railroad Commission on Thursday. Proceeds from the sale of this new issue will be used for generating plants, both water and steam, which are now in course of immediate construction or soon to be started and whose completion will greatly increase the capacity of the company for service.

Explaining the details of this Series "B" issue, District Manager D. H. Rowan said: "This stock will be offered to the company's 69,000 stockholders at the price of $90.00 per share. Any of the issue not taken by stockholders after the close of business May 2nd, will be offered to the general public, chiefly in the East, thru the house of E. H. Rollins & Sons, acting as agents for the company. It is expected that this whole issue will be placed within a few days. This new stock should not be confused with the seven percent Preferred Series "A" stock which the company has been selling thru its Investment Department and district offices during the past year. The price of the seven percent Preferred Series "A" stock continues to be $105 per share cash and $106 per share on the installment plan. The new six percent Series "B" stock has complete equality with the seven percent Series "A", except as to amount of dividend.

Mint Canyon Juleps

Mrs. Florence Meissner and daughter Miss Lucy, returned to their home in Sterling after a two weeks visit in Hollywood with Mr. and Mrs. John M. Dahany of Buffalo, New York. Mrs. Dahany is a sister of Mrs. Meissner. Mr. Dahany is president of the Dahany Packing Co. of Buffalo.

Among the Easter guests at the Johnson home were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Rewick and little son Kenneth and sister Miss Mary Johnson all of Los Angeles.

In observance of the quarantine that is so widely established, no social functions are taking place in the many canyons and visitors are few, save where a few "get by" by claiming residence, or with a special permit. The individual citizen ordinarily thinks that it is impossible for him to carry the deadly microbe, yet at the same time might be the very means of so doing. It behooves every law abiding citizen to do his part regardless of how small it may seem to be.

National Forests and the Auto Camper

The National Forests are open freely to the public for all proper and lawful purposes. On them you may camp where you like and stay as long as you please, if you comply with the regulations made by the Secretary of Agriculture to insure equal privileges to all in the use of these properties of the Nation.

That these privileges may be better enjoyed and that the forests may be safeguarded against their great enemy, fire, and for better protection of the health of travelers and residents against water contamination and similar causes of disease, free public camping grounds are established in many places by the Forest Service. To the extent permitted by the limited funds available for preparing and maintaining these grounds, they are being equipped with tables, fireplaces, and simple sanitary conveniences.

Wherever you camp on the National Forests, dead wood for the camp fire is free, as is forage for saddle and pack horses of those traveling thru the forests in old-timer's fashion. Free use of Government telephone lines at ranger stations may be had for the asking.

CALIFORNIA LEADS IN CARELESSNESS

California, with a record of 2,240 forest fires that burned over 942,565 acres, was the worst fire state in the Union in 1923. Seventy per cent of these fires were man-caused and could have been prevented.

Our citizens, accustomed to the thrill of leadership, bow in shame when these facts are recorded.

Help Prevent Forest Fires

Our forests should be cherished for three reasons:

1. Their natural scenic beauty.
2. Their timber supply.
3. Their aid in timber conservation.

Burned forests build no homes.
Leave a clean camp and a dead fire.
One tree will make a million matches.
One match may destroy a million trees.

Help Prevent Fires . . . It Pays!
