"For Each Other--Not Against Each Other."

REV. EVANS' TRIP.

Subject: Lessons Picked Up on My Trip to New York.

Text: John 21:19; the last clause.

As the train carried me away from Newhall on my trip to New York and other cities, I will describe it. It was the Los Angeles Limited, which carried eleven Pullmans, dining car and parlor car. If one wanted to eat, could step into the dining car; if you wanted to sleep, you could go to bed; if you wanted any barber work done, you could step into the barber shop; if your clothes needed cleaning and pressing, there was a valet at your service. Also a writing room, lounging room and periodicals of many kinds. I could not help but think of the days of our fathers, when they crossed the deserts with ox teams and many perished by the way.

The train's crew was made up of the engineer, fireman, brakeman, porters, but the one that had full authority over the train was the conductor. At his command, the train stopped, and at his command, the train started. We always watched the conductor when we were out strolling on the platform, while they were changing engines and reloading the ice tanks. I was reminded of Jesus, our Conductor, who said, "Follow thou me."

Then there were the passengers. Just as we had people of different tastes, dispositions and characters, so we found them in the train. Here is a lady who is trying to hold two seats, by sitting at one end, having her satchel at the other, her feet on the seat before her and the umbrella at the other end, and when I politely asked her if this seat was occupied, she said, "Can't you see that it is filled?" And I said, "I beg your pardon." And then, there were the two young ladies, and the fat young man, that were very willing to occupy one seat. Then an old couple came into the train, she looked very beautiful and I thought what a pleasant lady I am going to have sitting behind me. She had not been seated long, when she said to her husband, "Where did you get that paper?" "Oh, I brought it from my room," said he. "Well, where's the other half?" He told her that she had taken it to her room and had never returned it. "Well," she said, "Read out loud, don't read to yourself; read out loud." He commenced and had only read a few sentences when she told him to stop as she couldn't understand a word he said. After a while I didn't hear any more talking, and looked around, and behold the lady had found a seat by herself and there was peace in the family. And there was grandma and her grandson, and of course, like grandmas, she thought her little grandson was just right, but he, like most boys, liked to play in the water and, as there was no pool or stream, he had to play at the drinking fountain, and proceeded to water the aisle of the car. His grandmother asked him to come to her, and a very nice young lady smiled and said to him: "Go to your grandmother like a nice little boy." But instead of going, she received the full benefit of the cup of water on her beautiful silk dress, and the grandmother tried to have him apologize and said to him: "If you will apologize to the lady, I will give you some candy." He told her he wanted the candy first, and after eating it, she took him up to the young lady and said: "Now, darling, apologize to this young lady." His answer was, "I don't feel like it," and he didn't.

In the next place, the conductor is always on the job. The passengers

Woman's Club Notes.

The last meeting of the Club year was held in Hap-a-lan Hall, Wednesday, June 18. The program was given first which consisted of the following: two piano solos, Lora Thompson, vocal solos, Mrs. A. Lane, readings by Miss Ray, piano solo, Miss Florence Harker. Mrs. H. B. Russell and her committee were in charge of the program.

In a happy manner Mrs. Penhorwood in behalf of the Club, presented the outgoing president, Mrs. Nina B. Wright with a beautiful gift. Surprise and gratitude were too great for the time being to allow the recipient to express appreciation, but this will ever be cherished as one of the happiest moments in her life.

After the impromptu were said the regular order of the Club's routine was had. "America, the Beautiful" was sung, with Miss Helma Schmidt at the piano and Mrs. Lane leading. Prayer, read by Mrs. Agnes Taylor, after which allegiance was paid to the flag. A yearly report was submitted by the officers of the club.

Installation of the officers for the ensuing year then took place.

The gavel was then presented to Mrs. Woodard who conducted the remainder of the session.

It was decided to operate a refreshment stand outside the entrance to the Rodeo on July 4-5-6 for benefit of the club. A rising vote of thanks was extended to the outgoing social chairman, Mrs. P. C. Miller for her success in that capacity, and also to the retiring President for her past year's work.

Two new sections were created, that of "Mother's Bureau" over which Mrs. J. C. Haskell will preside, and that of the Press, which will be conducted by Mrs. Nina B. Wright.

Mrs. Haskell generously offered the use of her beautiful home in Saugus in which to entertain the club members' husbands at cards and dancing, at some future time.

The Club is just a little more than two years old, but is very energetic in the face of inconvenient features, and expects to accomplish much this year toward the building of a new club house.

The best wishes of the Club are extended to Mrs. Christine Woodard, the incoming president, in that she may have a successful year, and have the entire co-operation of her members.

A social half hour when refreshments were served by Mrs. H. B. Russell, concluded the year's work.

CONGRESSMAN WRITES

June 7, 1924.

Blanche B. Brown, Editor, The Signal, Newhall, California.

My Dear Mrs. Brown: Inasmuch as my official duties will necessitate my absence in Europe on United States Shipping Board matters for several months to come, I wish to announce that I shall be a candidate in the August primaries for the Republican nomination for Representative in Congress from the Ninth Congressional District of California. If nominated and elected, I shall continue to support the fundamental and time honored principles of the Republican party, will stand upon the platform to be adopted at the Republican convention at Cleveland, and give loyal support to all Republican candidates.

I thank my friends for their confidence in me in the past, and should they deem my record of public service to merit it, I will appreciate their continued co-operation and support.

Very Truly Yours,
WALTER F. LINEBERGER.

School Bonds Carry

The voters of Newhall School District want a new school house, and said so at last Friday's election in no uncertain terms. By the decisive vote of 107 to 9 they authorized the trustees to issue bonds to the amount of $40,000 to provide funds. Secretary Carr states that the necessary legal steps will be taken as rapidly as possible, and that a district meeting will be called soon to further arrange the legal phases of the matter.

Three of the ballots were thrown out as defective, from error in marking. The law permits only a cross in the squares opposite "Yes" or "No." Any other method or mark spoils the ballot.

Pretty Picnic Party.

The Educational section of the Newhall Woman's Club neither fear Friday nor 13 and that day entertained their husbands at cards, dance and supper at the Balesier Cafe in Mint. About 8 o'clock they arrived and proceeded to make themselves at home. The husbands immediately repaired to the "bar," selecting their favorite "brand," quite unmindful that the wives were timid and remained in another room.

In the great dining room some of those present indulged in dancing, while the others played cards. At midnight the tables were placed in a long row and a dainty supper served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Harker, J. H. Kee, R. C. Gibson, A. Lane, A. W. Perkins, R. F. Woodard, Walton Young, A. G. Thibaudau, F. A. Wright. Mesdames Agnes Taylor and Bailey Taylor. The husbands with one voice, expressed their delight with the evening and saw no reason why their wives could not be hostesses again.

HURRA FOR RODEO!

Hoora! Everybody is going to the Rodeo which is being held today, tomorrow and Sunday. This is the fourth year for the big event which is of more than local importance as people come from outside the state to attend. The Rodeo this year will be bigger and better than ever and a more roomy location was selected.

The arena is larger than formerly and for days and nites men have been sprinkling and putting sawdust on the track. The seating capacity is 10,000. There will be free parking space and a bunch of traffic officers will see that jams and collisions are prevented.

Any one intending to bring "booze" on the grounds will be disappointed for a bunch of James Bond's "dry squad" will be present. And besides, there will be a small army of deputy sheriffs to see that proper order is kept.

Fred Ramirez, of Los Angeles will have charge of the barbecue meat of which there will be 3,000 pounds.

At the dance held Saturday nite, Miss Mary Lowden was elected queen from ten candidates. The four girls running next highest were Naomi Lamkin, Celina Chaix, La Von Harker and Marian Miller. These girls will act as attendants to the queen, and with her will occupy a box. Miss Lowden graduated this year from the San Fernando High School.

On Friday nite, July 4, the Newhall Woman's Club will hold a big dance in Hap-a-lan Hall. Mrs. J. C. Haskell is chairman of the dance committee and no comment is necessary on Mrs. Haskell's ability to give a successful dance. A good orchestra will furnish the music. The proceeds will go to swell the building fund for the new Woman's Club house.

The Woman's Club will have an ice cream stand during the three days of the Rodeo and will dispense ice cream and lee cold bottled drinks. The stand will be just outside the entrance to the Rodeo grounds and will be in charge of Mesdames Bailey-Taylor, Perkins, Lane and Haskell.

Rudeen, the entertainer will be here the 17th of July and will give an entertainment in the Presbyterian church. He will give a lecture on Character Building taking Abraham Lincoln for the subject. Rudeen is a great whistling imitator of birds and two years ago gave a lecture here at the school house.

Edward Bok gave $50,000 for a peace plan, and is to give as much more when it is adopted by the United States government. Of course that last part of it is useless, because it never will be adopted. Furthermore, Mr. Bok could have bought a ten cent testament and turned to the four gospels and there found the best and only peace plan that ever will work. It is the Golden Rule, as laid down in the matchless language of the Man of Galilee, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and thy neighbor as thyself." Or, putting it in less religious form, Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them." And we want to say further that until this rule is adopted by all nations as the policy of national and business life, there will be no permanent peace, and no human contrivance can avail anything. And as long as the present tendency to rule selfishly is held by the majority of nations, that nation that wants to long exist as a nation, must be prepared to resist the selfish aggressions of other nations. This is not ideal, but it is true.

One hundred and forty-three years of life has been our nation's span of life--very short, measured by the lives of some of the other nations. And we only have to make a few comparisons to see that our short national existence is equal to many hundreds of years of the lives of some other nations. And unless we are careful as a nation we are apt to suffer the fate of rapid livers. The national birthday is a good time to resolve, as citizens of a great country, one in our estimation unequalled, that we will individually do our best to counteract the evil effects of rapid national living, and substitute old-fashioned patriotism and honesty for a few of the evils that now seem so prevalent. For there is one thing certain: a nation will never be any better than the average of the citizens composing it. And it is every one's duty to make his life and acts as nearly blameless as possible so as to make the average better.

County Fire Warden Flintham calls attention to the county ordinance prohibiting the sale of fireworks of any kind, and to the fact that owing to the excessive dryness, every provision of the ordinance will be enforced to the letter, this Fourth of July holiday season. So unless you have a permit, and are careful to observe all of its provisions, the firing of rockets will be your signal for a lot of trouble. Carefully paste this in Johnny's hat, and tell Billy and the rest about it.

To anyone who knows the man the putting in nomination of Governor C. W. Bryan for president is the biggest joke of the democratic convention. It is to be hoped the party doesn't try to make the joke practical, as it surely would be, if by any chance he should happen to be elected.

There are so many political lightning rods up in New York that the lightning doesn't seem to be able to strike anywhere.

Al Lowden has purchased the American Auto Works of "Dad" Collison, and will conduct the place in the same efficient manner as heretofore.

Missed Them Both.

A fussy traveling man went to the stage depot at McGinnis & Urfer's the other morning to buy a ticket to Los Angeles. Suddenly he concluded to go by train, and lugged his heavy sample case to the depot. The train was a little late, and back he trudged to the stage. Just before the stage pulled in, he again decided in favor of the train and again lugged the heavy sample case to the depot, just in time to see the train pull out. He hurried back to the stage depot, only to see the stage disappearing around the curve south of town. Then he puffed over to a seat and as far as the amused spectators could tell this is what he said:

You Taught Me Horses And The Sea.

By MARY CAROLYN DAVIES

You taught me horses and the sea;
You taught me the hills, and the mystery
Of night on the range, with gray sage spread
Over the world; and beneath my head
A saddle for pillow; like fingers light,
Waterfall spray on my cheek; and, best,
After the trail thru the forest—rest,
And a camp-fire blazing against the night!

HE TALKED TOO MUCH.

It was in a certain district in the Santa Barbara, several years ago. A mountain fire that had burned ruthlessly for three days and nights, was still beyond control. Rangers and fire fighters, two hundred strong, were putting up a desperate battle in the face of terrible odds. While the fire was burning at its height along the high ridges, a brand new Cadillac drove up in front of a garage in a nearby Canyon. The lone occupant of the car was a man weighing about 200 pounds, with diamonds very much in evidence. He was evidently a retired capitalist. As he stopped his motor, he let himself be heard as follows:

"What in hell's the matter with the rangers? Why don't the dizzy bums stop that fire? I'll bet I could put out that little old bonfire by myself."

It so happened that one of the "dizzy rangers" was only a few feet from the car. When he heard the big boy rave, his temperature flew up to 110 in the shade in about two seconds. Walking over to the Cadillac palace car, he reached in and grabbed the big boy by the collar and yanked him out over the running board.

"Come on, smarty," he said, "You're just the bird we have been looking for."

Then he directed the human "diamond mine" mercilessly up a five-mile grade to the fire line. When the big boy arrived he was "all in" and before he got a shovel in his hand, fell to the ground in a faint. The ranger and one of the fire fighters packed him down to a safety zone and when he came to they told him how to get to his car and advised him to make all haste back to his buttermilk and toast.

Moral: Never holler Eureka, unless you can deliver the goods.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

"Full house, did you say? Bah, that's nothing. I've got five aces."

Some of the ancient order of moss-backs, has-beens, never-wasers and aint-never-goin-to-bes are weeping crocodile tears over the fact that modern women are still lining up, ten deep, to get their hair bobbed. Anyway there's one consolation—you don't hear the barbers crabbing about it: I shud shay not.

All the foes which attack the woodlands of California, no other is so terrible as fire. Mountain and forest fires spring from many different causes. Carelessness is the chief cause. Settlers and farmers clearing land or burning grass and brush often allow the fire to escape. Someone may drop a burning match, cigar or cigarette from his car; a hunter, camper or prospector may neglect to extinguish his camp fire. Many fires are set for malice or revenge. Others are started by cattle and sheep owners to make better pasture for their herds.

Most of the very destructive fires occur in the fall, but at all times they are a terrible menace. Their destructive power depends largely on the wind. They cannot travel against it, except up-hill, and not even then, if the wind is strong. In fighting mountain fires the wind is the first thing to consider. A sudden change of wind often checks a fire, or may turn it off in a new direction, threatening the lives of those who are fighting it.

Fireworks of any kind are absolutely prohibited within the boundaries of any National Forest. There are no exceptions to this regulation, which will be enforced this season to the letter.

HISTORIC FOREST FIRES.

The three worst forest fires that have occurred in the United States to date were:

Miramichi fire in 1825, which started 60 miles above Newcastle, New Brunswick. In 9 hours it destroyed a belt of timber 80 miles long and 25 miles wide, 2,000 square miles. Almost every living thing was killed within this area. A number of towns were wiped out; 590 buildings were destroyed; 160 persons perished and 1,000 head of cattle.

Peshtigo fire in Wisconsin, in 1871. Burned over 2000 square miles. Between 1200 and 1500 perished, including half the entire population of Peshtigo.

Hinckley fire in Minnesota in 1894. Hinckley and six other towns were totally destroyed, and 500 lives were lost.

visited, slept, or took exercise, but he was here, and there and looking after every detail. Our conductor is always busy. He said, "I must be after my Father's business." And again, "I must do the works of Him that sent me while it is day, for the night cometh, when no man can work." Again; He is a personal Conductor. When I was in Washington, I accompanied a party on a sight-seeing trip to Mount Vernon, Alexandria, Arlington, General Lee's Home, the capitol of our nation, the White House, the treasury building and many other places. I could do this in two days, because I had a personal conductor who knew the way. Jesus, our Conductor, knows the way, so let us follow Him and do the works that he would have us to do. I noticed that this personal conductor in Washington knew every passenger on his car, and he would say, "We have two passengers missing, and could describe them. Jesus, our personal conductor, knows us, for the Word tells us that he calls his sheep by name and he goes in and out and leads them to green pastures. He follows them out in the storm, and brings them back to the fold, and he loves them with an everlasting love. In the next place, he is a safe Conductor. When I reached New York City it was almost dark, and, through some mistake, no one was there to meet me. I asked the station master to tell me where I could get a hotel near the station. He told me to go two blocks north, one block south and I would find the hotel, but, "Mind you, said he, don't go on any of the side streets." I had only traveled half a block when two men tried to get me to go down one of the side streets, because, they said, it was a short cut. They were not safe conductors and I did not follow them. It is a great thing to have a conductor who takes an interest in your welfare. I had the pleasure of visiting the Museum of Natural History in New York City and had for my guide the youngest brother of our own Mr. Dill. He gave me a very cordial greeting and for one hour and a half he guided me through the rooms of that wonderful Museum, explaining so many things that only he would take the trouble to do, because he was interested in me. I shall never forget his kindness, or the great Museum of Natural History. In the last place, our conductor guided us to our old home in safety. The old home that my grandfather built, 1840, and there I received a warm welcome. Jesus guides us home. He said, "I go to prepare a place for you, and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself." Jesus also said, "I pray that you may be one, even as I and my Father are one." And I could not help but think of these words when I attended a banquet in the Federated Church of my old home. In the early years, my grandfather helped to build the Baptist Church and my grandmother was a charter member of the Presbyterian Church, and when they would drive in town on Sunday morning, grandfather would stop at the Presbyterian Church, and some of the children would go with grandmother, the others would accompany grandfather to the Baptist Church. Many years passed by, grandmother and grandfather had gone to their reward, and the World's war was on. The Baptist minister passed the examination to go to the service as a Chaplain, but failed in the physical examination. The Presbyterian minister passed the examination and was accepted. The Baptist minister said to the Presbyterian minister: "I cannot go to the service, but if your people will let me bring my congregation over to your church, inasmuch as you have a large and commodious building, one that we can do all of the war work for the community in, my people and myself will be glad to come." The Presbyterian church invited the minister and his congregation, and they worked hand in hand during the war, and after it was over, they organized the Federated Church. And now, if grandfather and grandmother were living, they would not have to separate at the door of the Presbyterian Church. I thank God that the time is here when the churches are uniting in the bond of fellowship and love, and that we are fulfilling the words of Jesus when he said: "Be one, even as my Father and I are one."

In Judge Miller's Court

C. F. Calhoun drew a penalty of $50 for burning without a permit.

L. C. Adams is charged with allowing fire to escape, and the case is still pending.

Joe Duquette left his camp fire burning, and drew 90 days.

Ed Hartman drew a 90 day suspended sentence for reckless driving, and M. Mack, A. Williams and P. Mulcahy drew the same for blasting without a permit

Four serious accidents occurred occurred to autoists on the tunnel hill and B. C. Pettierew, Ches Teger and a third man were injured, and half a dozen cars wrecked, as the net result.

Few Words of Cheer
Beginning With "Sn"

Have you any prejudice against words beginning with the syllable "sn"? Emerson had. Mrs. Emerson once referred to a lady of her acquaintance as a snob. Her husband objected, saying: "I do not like it. I particularly dislike all words beginning with 'sn.' Though she is a snob you might call her a person who is very charitably disposed toward success."

Noah Webster lists a considerable number of words beginning with this syllable, observes the Utica Observer-Dispatch. Only a few of the words in this category are descriptive of positive and lovely traits and things. Our primitive ancestors must have felt the way Emerson felt.

There is, for instance, man's first and scriptural enemy, the "snake." Then there is "sneak," which defines the snake in human form. Add "snoop," the petty spy and informer, and "sniper," the fighter from ambush.

And, of course, "sneer," which is the characteristic expression of the "snob"; and "snicker," a form of derisive laughter. Also "snatch," which defines an ungenerous attitude, and "snap," as indicative of the argumentative and belligerent person.

A husband is popularly believed to "snore" while asleep and to "snarl" while awake. Or, maybe he is only a "snip" who "snivels."

"Sn" seems to be a hoodoo. No wonder Emerson "snorted" over the word "snob," even though the woman it described had "snubbed" his good wife.

'Snough to make anybody sniff.

Dots and Dashes.

The road gang has been doing a much needed smoothing job on the tunnel hill the past week. The surfacing seems to get soft on hot days, and fold up under the heavy traffic, and then harden in great ridges. The going is then somewhat like it would be if one were to drive over a gigantic washboard. The smoothing machine has cut off the folds, and the road is at present in splendid condition.

The many friends of Mrs. Marie Abbott will be glad to know that she has arrived from the East where she has been the past two and a half years and will spend the summer in California. She is now stopping with her son, L. S. Rowan and wife in Placerville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kee and son Ervin leave July 7th for Sonoma County and other northern points for an outing which will last until August 1st. Mrs. Fred Clark will take care of the library during Mrs. Kee's absence.

The R. C. Gibson family entertained friends to the number of twenty five Saturday afternoon at the Scherzinger auto camp, a picnic dinner being the main attraction. Guests were present from San Fernando, Santa Monica and Los Angeles, and a most enjoyable afternoon is reported.

During the next two weeks the smiling countenance of V. A. Renfro will be missed at the drug store as he leaves Monday on a two weeks vacation. He will visit his people at Downey and Long Beach before taking a trip to Yosemite.

The decorator came up Saturday and put up the decorations for the Rodeo and celebration. Twenty strings of flags are strung across the street, and about every business place has a gorgeous display of the national colors. The flags will remain up until July 7.
