"For Each Other—Not Against Each Other."

Presbyterian Church Notes

A memorial service in memory of Miss Ellen May Reynolds will be held Sunday evening in connection with the C. E. service. Miss Reynolds was a charter member of the society, served as vice-president and as a member of different committees during the years of her loving service, and it is very fitting that we pause and in a special way think of her life, her service and her devotion.

The Pastor will take for his morning subject, "A New Preacher."

The subject of the Sunday School lesson is "The Sermon on The Mount. The golden text is: "Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done."

Mrs C. W. Lewis led the C. E. service last Sunday and gave some of her experiences in mission Sunday school work in Los Angeles. Brothea Palmer gave a talk on Evangelistic work in the South. It was an interesting and helpful meeting.

An important announcement will be given next Sunday evening regarding the work of the C. E. Society. Be sure and be there.

Ellen May Reynolds

Ellen May Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Reynolds, was born in Placerita Canyon, near the place where gold was discovered in California, on June 20, 1898. She graduated from the Newhall school June, 1913, from San Fernando high school June, 1917, and from the Southern Branch of the University of California June 1920. She taught school in the Felton District, Pico Canyon, and the North Side School, Redondo Beach. She was a member of the Newhall Presbyterian Church and Sunday School, and was a charter member of the Christian Endeavor society which was organized in 1911. She served as vice-president, president, and a member of different committees. When the writer took up the work in the Newhall Church, she was president of the C. E. society, organist in the church, Sunday School and the society. She was a teacher in the Sunday School and later organized a teachers' normal training class. She assisted the writer in the Canyon Sunday Schools that were held in the school houses in the days when there were not so many cars. She also assisted in socials, programs and neighborhood work. She kept the faith and entered into her rest October 3, 1924, and heard her Savior say, "Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord, and receive thy crown of righteousness."

The funeral services were held in the Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial Park Tuesday afternoon. Her pastor took as his text her loved verse and one that gave her so much comfort: "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Mr. Needham spoke of her beautiful life, wonderful faith, and the everlasting good that she has done. Sweet music was rendered by a harpist and a C. E. soloist from the Highland Park Presbyterian Church, after which the casket was borne to God's acre, and placed under a bank of flowers, the loving tributes of her loved ones and friends.

BROTHER EVANS

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the C. E. Society, Ladies' Aid, Masonic Club, Star Club, Woman's Club, Standard Oil Co., Parent-Teacher Association, and other friends for their sympathy and flowers during the illness and death of our beloved daughter, May.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. REYNOLDS.

Soldiers Leave

The detachment of soldiers that has been assisting in the fire prevention work in the Canyon north of Newhall, left for San Pedro, Tuesday. It comprised Lieut. Strickland, Corporal Hoagland, and Privates Eureka, Rea, Ferguson, Klassen, Gower, Bolstad and Grove. They declared they had a most enjoyable outing.

Newhall To Have Movie Studio

Newhall has been made a part of the movie location by being selected as the future home of the Ben Wilson Productions Corporation.

A lease was closed last week for the Frank Lassalle ranch in Wiley Canyon by the organization, and work will be commenced soon on the necessary buildings and stage sets. There will be all the accessories and machinery used in the picture business, including the electrical light plants. The company has been engaged in the making of western cowboy productions, but will no longer be exclusive, all kinds of pictures being the aim of the company for the new location. The company has leased the ranch for a term of five years, and their buildings will be of a very substantial type.

Mr Lassalle keeps the ranch for the usual purposes of stock raising, but very little alteration being necessary for the usual work of the cowboys in their parts.

These studios always bring business to the towns in which they are located, and Newhall is fortunate in that respect in being chosen as a studio location.

25. Proceeds to go to the Club. Mrs Agnes Taylor read an interesting paper on current events.

The president advised every woman to vote, no difference how, but VOTE.

The speakers were Dr Lina Phelps on Child Welfare and Dr Blanchard on Child Psychology. The former urged the Child Labor system be endorsed. She cited many cases of truancy under the present labor law.

Dr Blanchard said that children can be cured of what appears to be downright meanness, by using other methods than had been used. This locates the cause of antagonistic tendencies, completely changing the disposition of the child.

A continued ten minute report on the Biennial Convention was given by the delegate, Mrs Nina B Wright.

A lecture on American Citizenship will be broadcasted K G O on the evening of Oct. 20. All club women should listen in.

A social half hour was enjoyed during which coffee and wafers were served. Several visitors were present, among them being Mrs A C Swall of Los Angeles.

Auto Skids; Man Killed

W. T. Watson, of Oakland, was instantly killed Tuesday morning when his car skidded and turned over on the curve a mile north of Newhall.

A man who rode from San Fernando with Watson is said to have stated that Watson seemed to be a very inexperienced driver. From all appearance at the place of the accident, he must have been traveling at a high rate of speed when the car turned over. The car was a new Ford, was very little injured.

Woman's Club Meeting

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the Woman's Club Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Woodard presiding. Mrs Etta Dawson offered prayer after which came the salutation to the flag and the singing of "America, The Beautiful," with Mrs. Harker at the piano.

Minutes of last meeting were read, also a communication stating that the district picture purchased last year would be on exhibition at Newhall Feb. 11, 1925 if convenient for the club. This was voted in the affirmative.

Mrs. Kee, chairman of Civics, reported that a rummage sale will be held sometime in November and that everything from a handkerchief to an opera cloak will be accepted; also old magazines.

Mrs. Thibaudeau gave a short report of work done at two previous meetings pertaining to citizenship and flag etiquette. Short reports from other sections included one from the Floral by Mrs Kingsbury, and Social, Mrs Lane, who announced a Hallow'en Dance held at Hap-a-Lan Hall, October

Entered as second-class matter, February 21, 1919, at the postoffice at Newhall, California, under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

There is a very queer thing in that base ball bribery case. There is the utmost haste in declaring the case closed. It would look to an observer from a distance as if the whole New York organization, if not in on the alleged bribery plot, are suspiciously averse to any investigation. The very fact that always at the right time for the last three years the needed games have gone to the Giants, makes a circumstance that tends to prove the claim that the whole club was in on the deal. There are people well up in the base ball world who believe there is something wrong, and the chances are that matters will not be improved until the thing is brought to light and disposed of.

The tendency of the voters to support LaFollette comes from two sources; the first that after the so-called patriots had branded LaFollette as a traitor, they proved to be the real traitors by shamelessly robbing the government in the name of patriotism. The second source of the LaFollette sentiment is from those who saw the gigantic protest of 1920, and believed that an era of honesty was at once due, naturally blaming the administration for what it fell short of what was expected. That it did fall short was very natural; but it is also a reasonable certainty that whoever is elected at this time, he also will fall below the expectations of his followers. And the greater the promises the greater the disappointment is likely to be.

Those who find fault with the courts should remember that in a great measure the court decisions are correct interpretations of the law, not made by judges, but by the legislatures or by congress. It is also a singular fact that decisions most complained of come on laws that are intended to prevent all wrong. For instance, California has an almost absurdly strict primary law, intended to prevent all fraud, and to guarantee an honest choice of candidates. That those who were successful under that law would defend their advantage one would expect. The fault is in the law, and going further back, in the people, who seem afraid to trust even themselves in election.

It is hoped the rain of Sunday settles the fire problem for the year.

The Little Towns of Texas
By CLYDE WALTON HILL.

The little towns of Texas
That nestle on her plains
And gather close the inland roads,
The homing trails and lanes;
The little towns of Texas
That sleep the whole night long.
Cooled by a scented southern breeze,
Lulled by its drowsy song!

The little towns of Texas
Will ever seem to me
Like stars that deck a prairie sky
Or isles that dot a sea;
Like beads that sparkle here and there
On Texas' flowered gown;
Or figures on its rich brocade
Of purple, green and brown.

The little towns of Texas
Seen through the prairie haze,
How fair and fresh and free they lie
Beneath the golden days!
Not crowded in deep valleys,
Not buried in tall trees,
But open to the sun, the rain,
The starlight, and the breeze!

The little towns of Texas,
What pretty names they bear!
There's Echo, Garland, Crystal Springs,
Arcadia, Dawn and Dare;
There's Ingleside and Prairie Home,
And Bella, and Rising Star.
God keep them child-like, restful,
clean,
Pure as the prairies are!

Americans! Come Across!

Every conceivable dirty trick known to greasy-handed and corrupt politicians as well as Wall Street profiteers, together with many truckloads of untruthful printed propaganda, is being used in an effort to belittle and discredit the sterling qualities and high principles which are representative of Bob La Follette in his campaign for the presidency.

The race is apparently between La Follette and Coolidge. Davis doesn't appear to have a chance.

Big business is afraid of Bob La Follette. It is not afraid of Calvin Coolidge because it knows that Coolidge will work for and with it. Obviously, the business of "big business," from now until Election day, is to keep La Follette under cover.

But La Follette is popular, principally because he's a "square shooter" and always has been. He believes in the common people, the active producers. And he is not afraid to come out in the open and help them fight their battles.

Swivel-chair political pirates tell us, that in case La Follette is elected, mills and factories will be forced to close down. They say this on the strength of the fact that he does not favor the pilfering engaged in by bulldog capitalism. There is no other reason for such rattle-headed prattle.

The same old gag has been stuffed down the throats of American workers so many times before that it has virtually lost its "kick." It's so ancient that it's whiskers sweep the sidewalks, and the majority of intelligent employees no longer think that it "listens good."

Another dirty trick that has been pulled on La Follette is in keeping his name off the ballots of California and Louisiana. This contemptible trick is very apt to backfire on the "tricksters" and put Bob La Follette in the White House. Even Coolidge has been clever enough and sportsman enough to protest this outrage against the American Constitution.

Since when, must the American people bow down in meek and humble servitude to a handful of dictatorial and Kaiseristic judges?

Wake up, Americans. Open your eyes and walk to the line. Read the handwriting on the wall.

If you believe in peace and prosperity, you must also believe in Bob La Follette. For he always has been and always will be representative of these two essential cornerstones to American progress and achievement.

Come on Americans, let's go!
And follow La Follette!

THORNTON DOELLE.

Accidents on the Ridge Route, Sunday and Monday, October 5 and 6, were numerous, due to slippery pavement. It is understood that several fatalities occurred. One machine, an Oakland, skidded on a blind curve just above National Forest Inn, early Sunday morning and backed 150 feet down into a canyon. The car did not turn over and neither of the occupants was injured.

A Maxwell sedan turned over on the highway, four miles above National Forest Inn, about noon, Sunday. The driver was slightly injured, but the car was not damaged.

A Chandler skidded and ran into the bank near Swede's Cut, Sunday morning, losing a wheel. No injuries reported.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

You go over and start an argument with that ranger while I set a bonfire under his coupe. Never did like forest rangers anyway.

Three autos pulled up in front of the Inn garage one Sunday morning. The following conversation took place between the respective drivers and

Joe Palmer: Man in a Cadillac—"Say, boss, how far is it to Bakersfield?"
Joe—"Seventy-one miles."
Man in Cadillac—"All right, give me 20 gallons of gas and two quarts of Eastern heavy."
Man in a Dodge—"How far did you say it is to Bakersfield?"
Joe—"Seventy-one miles."
Man in Dodge—"Well, let me have ten gallons of gas and a pint of oil."
Man in Ford—"Did you say seventy-one miles to Bakersfield?"
Joe—"Yes sir."
Man in Ford—"All right, fill it up with water and hold the damn thing until I get in."

Mint Canyon Juleps

The box social held at Mint Canyon school last Saturday night was a very pleasant affair, as well as profitable. The boxes were many and beautiful to behold, as each wife, girl or sweetheart vied with the other to make the prettiest. But goodness sakes, that wasn't the half of it for when the boxes were opened and the culinary art displayed in many lines such as pie, cake, fried chicken and salads, the gentlemen thought they had paid none too much for the feast. Ory Brown, auctioneer, sold the boxes, which brought a goodly sum. Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Among those who attended the party from outside were: Mr and Mrs Scott J. Resley and daughter, Florence, and Mr and Mrs Nolan of Huntington Park; Mr and Mrs Paul Johnson and sister Mary, of Los Angeles, and Dorris Johnson of Los Angeles. Those deserving special mention for contributions and donations are: Mr Resley, Mrs J. L. Lewis and Earl Gardner. Last week ten benches were placed in the school house, and the next item is a piano, something that should be in every school house. So patronize these school entertainments for the children's benefit. Again we thank you.

Ory Brown Jr. is at Ocean Park this week undergoing an operation for tonsillitis.

Theodore Stensland and party of Los Angeles were looking after their interests at the gypsum mine the latter part of the week. Extensive preparations are being made on the roads where grading is necessary when it comes to hauling heavy loads that the company anticipates soon.

A. E. Tysall, our genial postman, was a week-end guest at the beach with relatives.

There'll be a Hallowe'en Masquerade Dance held in Mint Canyon school house on Saturday night, October 25. Every one is invited to come and help swell the fund for the new piano. The Buzard Gulch Orchestra is going to play, and we know what it means when Dorris Johnson gets his fingers on the ivories. Then too, there'll be oodles of fun, besides free refreshments. So for the cause, a benefit, we will expect all the former patrons. Not only tell your friends but bring them. We are like the Jew, "we need the money." Member Sat. night, Oct. 25, Mint Canyon school house.

Mr and Mrs Charley Held and family of Los Angeles are moving on the ranch of the former's mother, Mrs. Mary Held, in Sierra Pelona Valley, to remain indefinitely. Mr Held expects to enter the chicken industry. He was formerly manager of one of Boose Bros.' cafes, from which work he requires a much needed rest. Success to you, Mr Held.

Saugus Community Club meets Saturday at 2 o'clock p. m. at Saugus school house. Mrs J. B. Lorbeer, vice-president of Los Angeles District G. F. W. C. will speak. Every one is invited to attend and be prompt, as there are a great many things to do. Bring your neighbor and let Mrs Lorbeer tell you what your club is worth.

In some unaccountable manner, the small house on the Charles Hilton ranch was destroyed by fire Tuesday evening. Nothing was saved. It was at first thought Mr Hilton was inside, but the neighbors who came found the door locked with a padlock on the outside, thus allaying all fears for his safety. The only things saved were a screen door and an old wagon that stood near the house. Mr. Hilton lives with his son in Glendale, only coming to the ranch for a little exercise, or vacation, as his fancy may dictate.

Mr and Mrs Lary of Lang were guests of the Gardners at gypsum mine one day last week.

Fire fighters from many localities were relieved from their strenuous duties the early part of the week by the showers that quenched the fire that had been swallowing everything available for weeks. Truckloads of men were loaded together like horses and thus transported to their homes. Now the sad part of it is, could they not have been given comfortable transportation? We know these men were brave enough to risk their lives in protection of the homes, crops and trees that lay in the path of the red plague, enduring all sorts of hardships, caught in treacherous traps, running the risk of being blinded thru a fickle wind changing its course—if these men were called upon to help save the forests and watersheds that are invaluable to the state's welfare, they should at least have been provided a more comfortable way of reaching home. "I'll tell you it ain't right!"

Poor Man Fainted

The man had just informed the Pullman agent that he wanted a berth. "Upper or lower?" asked the agent. "What's the difference?" asked the man. "A difference of 50 cents in this case. The lower is higher than the upper. The higher price is for the lower. If you want it lower you'll have to go higher. We sell the upper lower than the lower. Most people don't like the upper, although it is lower on account of being higher. When you occupy an upper you have to get up to go to bed and get down when you get up. You can have the lower if you pay higher. The upper is lower than the lower because it is higher. If you are willing to go higher, it will be lower." But the poor man had fainted. — Postal Spirit.

Happiest Girl He Had Met

By CLARISSA MACKIE

(Copyright.)

JOHN ALLEN, who declared he had no time to waste on women when there was so much to do in the world of engineering and forestry, in both of which he was especially interested, had called the new school teacher "The Hemlock Girl." Perhaps it was because he always met her on that mountain trail where the hemlocks closed in on either side.

She was the happiest girl he had ever met, and beyond the bare friendly nod of recognition that she would have given to Indian Joe she paid the handsome, bronzed young forester no attention.

So all through the beautiful autumnal weather the forester followed his regular trails over the mountain top, storing his lookout house with supplies for the winter, providing himself with books and magazines for the long, snowed-in period ahead. On this particular morning the December sky was gray and heavy with snow. There was a light snow covering the ground now, and he would not be surprised if his homeward trip at night was accompanied by the howling of a wild snowstorm. There was a little eerie whine to the wind now with a rising note that warned him. He wondered if he had not better go back and warn the school teacher to dismiss her children early in the afternoon. But she was already out of sight.

"She looks like a sensible girl—probably's been warned about these mountain storms," he muttered, and then dismissed her loftily from his mind. The children had been granted a holiday because it was so near Christmas—and the Hemlock Girl had gone to the schoolhouse to decorate it for a Christmas party.

The snowstorm came, a blinding, swirling blizzard. How the wind did moan and screech! He bent to the blast, was swung off the trail and found himself floundering in a tucklet of hemlock and spruce.

"Confound the hemlock!" he roared, and into his open mouth poured a flood of heavy flakes. A thin voice near by sang out mockingly: "Don't waste your powder, mister. Just—come—and—help—me!"

"Where?" bellowed John Allen lustily.

"Over here!" sang the voice, and they collided. Both churning in circles finally met and the smaller furry form went right into John's groping arms and nestled there.

"Where the dickens did you come from?" he wanted to know.

"School—snow—lost—way—cold—" And then the weight on his shoulder was heavier and he knew that the brave little girl of the hemlocks had fainted.

In a moment the forester was alert. He slung off the blanket roll he carried, put the blanket on the ground and laid her there. Then around her he grouped the contents of his pack so that they would not be lost. His small bright lantern light showed a small hollow filling with snow. Beneath the snow would be pine needles. His arms worked like flails, and when he had scraped away the snow he took a pouch from the pack and fastened the corners to four small trees, making a light roof. His hatchet cut and slashed until he had great piles of hemlock and pine boughs with which he lined and walled the little shelter, and last of all he carried the blanket and its contents to the hut. Just at the opening in the shelter he scraped away a place and built a roaring fire. When he went to revive the Hemlock Girl she was sitting up, blinking level eyes at him and the unfamiliar surroundings.

"How wonderful it is—to come out of that terrible storm into this warmth and comfort. You are a perfect pioneer!" How lovely she looked there singing his praises and inciting him to new deeds of valor. In a minute she was beside him helping to make the house snug and tight, making coffee better than his own, sharing his cup and spoon, eating out of the same sauceman of thick tinned vegetable soup with lots of hard tack broken into it. For dessert he gave her some sweet chocolate, and through sharing the hardships and making this little shelter they became well acquainted enough to joke about the chocolate. When he had washed all the dishes with snow and everything was dried and packed tidily away, they sat and talked until all the fury of the blizzard seemed to have been expended. They knew each other like old friends.

"You cannot pass me by with that curt nod, Miss Gray, now that we are real—may I say friends?" he asked wistfully.

"Of course we are friends—and I do wish you would lend me some of the Digests you're always carrying to and fro; I am hungry for reading up here."

"All you want—didn't know you even noticed me," he stammered.

They both laughed from sheer light-heartedness, and soon after they heard the distant hull of the search party. Presently Alice was leaving, going down the mountain trail with Doctor Smith and his son, leaving John Allen alone standing beside the house they had built.

"What was the last thing she said? Cute, too! 'Please don't tear our house to pieces, Mr. Allen.' As if I ever would, bless her sweet eyes."

That was not the end—dear me, no—only the beginning.

Walnutto Pesto

With the ripening of walnuts throughout Southern California has appeared an annual pest that is the terror of growers, according to the reports made to the Automobile Club of Southern California. This pest is the most devastating of any and not only eats the nuts on which the grower is depending for his year's labor, but carries them away in large quantities.

Walnut growers have issued an appeal to the club to help them and to sound a warning. The pest is described as having two legs, two arms, two eyes, between five and six feet tall, and driving an automobile. It also carries a sack which it attempts to fill with walnuts from privately owned groves, carry the sack to the car and get away before being detected or made to disgorge.

Briefly, this particular and most dreaded pest is the unthinking motorist who gathers walnuts wherever he finds them; apparently not realizing that he is committing plain theft.
